YOUR JOB

Wherever you're working—in office or shop,
And however far you may be
from the top—
And though you may think you're treading the mill,
Don't ever belittle the job
that you fill;
For, however little your job
may appear,
You're just as important as some little gear.
That meshes with others in
some big machine,
That helps keep it going—
though never is seen.
They could do without you—
we'll have to admit—
But business keeps on, when the big fellows quit!
And always remember, my lad,
if you can,
The job's more important—
(oh yes)—than the man!
So if it's your hope to stay off
the shelf,
Think more of your job than
you do of yourself.
Your job is important—don't think it is not—
So try hard to give it the best that you've got!
And don't think ever you're of little account—
Remember, you're part of the total amount.
If they didn't need you, you wouldn't be there—
So, always, my lad, keep your chin in the air.
A digger of ditches, mechanic,
or clerk—
THINK WELL OF YOUR COMPANY, YOURSELF, AND YOUR WORK!

SUCCESS

Success is not rare—it is common. Very few miss a measure of it. It is not a matter of luck, or contesting—for certainly no success can come from preventing the success of another. It is a matter of adjusting one's abilities to a service needed by others. There is no other possible success. But most people think of it in terms of getting;
success, however, begins in terms of giving—Henry Ford.

THE PARKING PROBLEM

I know that all those who come here by automobile at present have difficulty in finding proper parking space for their cars, and also some have a little hardship in getting out of the places where they park their cars.

I am fully aware of this condition and it has my attention.

Please bear in mind there are employed at the present time hundreds of men on construction work who are here only temporarily—all of whom, however, arrive here by auto.

In a very short period of time, when these men have finished their work here, the condition will be much more comfortable for everybody, and as soon as this time has arrived I will see to it that proper arrangements are made so that everybody's car may be properly parked and sufficient space allowed to get out without difficulty.

Meanwhile, however, I must ask you to be patient and cooperate, realizing that as soon as possible we will make permanent arrangements to everybody's satisfaction.

Sincerely yours,

HARRY H. STRAUS,
President.

UNAVOIDABLE DELAY
CAFETERIA OPENING

Mr. Boyd, Cafeteria manager, believes that apologies are in order. It was his sincere belief that by June 15, the cafeteria would be running full blast. However, due to an unavoidable hold-up the new cafeteria must hold off its services for a few more days. So until the hold-up is eliminated, let's all be as patient as possible. Mr. Boyd is doing everything humanly possible to open the cafeteria doors within a few days.

HIS CHANCES

One Negro was worrying about the chance of his being drafted for the army. The other consoled him. "There's two things that can happen, boy. You is either drafted or you ain't drafted. If you ain't you can forget it; if you is, you still got two chances. You may be sent to the front and you may not. If you go to the front, you still got two chances, you may get shot and you may not. If you get shot, you still have two chances, you may die and you may not! And even if you die, you still has two chances."

Boss: "You are twenty minutes late again. Don't you know what time we start work at this factory?"

New Employee: "No, sir, they're always at it when I get there."

Justice of the Peace to witness: "Last week you told the court that you had only one brother but your sister has sworn that she has two. Now, out with the truth!"

Walter Heller Dies

We regret to announce the death of one of our old employees, Walter Heller, from the Champagne Printing Department, who passed away on June 30 at the John Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Maryland, following a brain operation. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Blanche Heller, and one son, Walter, Jr., 4 years old.

He has been in the employ of Mr. Straus for about eight or nine years and was well thought of by his fellow workers. His remains were taken to the home of his parents at Jersey City, N. J., from whence he will be buried.

There is but little of this world's consolation that we have to offer other than deeply sympathizing with his wife and son, and his parents over the loss of a good fellow, a good father, and a good husband.

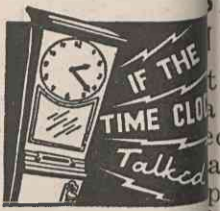

ENGINEERS SMILE

Everyone in the Engineering department is quite enthused and pleased with their new office, and it is easy to see the reason. The new quarters have everything a modern office would include. There is a sufficient amount of natural light, and at necessary times there is a new fluorescent light system. Above all, the working space is something to be proud of. The new office was occupied on Saturday, June 14.

One of those flighty city women was visiting in the hills of Transylvania county.

She — "This place has so many odd and peculiar people."

Native—"Yes. Most of them go home by the first of September."

Speak Up For

A foreman is usually a busy fellow. He has a great responsibility and even a few of 'em have about a dozen things to think of and check up every day. Most of the foremen known were glad to hear suggestions from the people who worked with them.

Did you ever hand in suggestions along to your man? If you haven't—

How do you think your suggestions? By just opening your eyes and realizing what's going on around you.

It may be that you've a better way of doing things, how to save waste material, even an idea for a new product.

What's more important—saving a life or keeping one out of the hospital?

That's just what you're able to do by spotting a ladder, a machine, a fire exit, the need for a rail, poorly piled material, a broken gate or unsafe hallway.

When you see such a thing, speak up to your foreman. He's the one who can correct it.

Your suggestions will keep you awake and thinking, and you won't do you one bit of harm.

MAIN OFFICE TO

The Main Office will be closed all day July 4th. The Champagne Paper Corporation and Endless Belt will be shut down for the holiday. Ecusta will operate as usual.

Since the regular pay falls on Friday the arrangements have been made to deliver checks to employees Thursday, July 3rd, at 11 A. M.

Saw a man hit with a hammer, the man looked at his thumb, and he didn't say a word at the hammer. Taking a kerchief from his pocket, he wrapped it around his hand where the blood was oozing to show, and went on with his work. Any man passes up a chance doesn't know when opportunity knocks with a hammer.
