

Pulp Mill Employees Present Novel Program

"IF MEN PLAYED CARDS AS WOMEN DO" WAS GIVEN

Isn't This The Way The Women Would Do, Is It?

Feminine foibles were cleverly satirized in a one-act comedy entitled, "If Men Played Cards as Women Do," which was presented by four male employees of the Pulp Mill at the monthly party given for employees in the Ecusta cafeteria Friday evening, Nov. 26. Sang Lyday was cast in the role of "hostess" and his guests were Fritz Merrill, Bill Bangs and Ott Whitesides.

Naturally, women's penchant for gossip was revealed and the conversation touched upon many topics of interest to them. As might have been expected, when one of the quartet espied a phantom mouse in the corner of the room where they were playing, all of them promptly clambered on their chairs with many shrieks. Comment on the furnishings of the room when the "hostess" went out for a moment was avid and scathing.

Before the play was presented, John Eversman conducted a quiz contest in which cigarettes were awarded to those who gave correct replies.

John Goolsby was then called to the microphone, and, in response to Mr. Eversman's questions told how that morning on his way to work he had battled and killed a six-point deer, the first one he had ever seen.

Square dancing was enjoyed both before and after the program and a number of those present played bridge.

Prevention Of Eye Injuries Discussed At Safety Meeting

The regular monthly safety meeting was held in the Mill Office conference room Wednesday, Nov. 24th. Those attending this meeting were as follows: Messrs. R. F. Bennett, W. D. Harrison, H. F. Finck, W. P. Tindall, E. L. Happ, J. A. Brewer, R. Wilber, W. L. Harrison, R. E. Matthews, R. Colwell, Millard Teague, E. O. Bryant, R. L. Thompson, D. J. Luther, O. F. Goepfert, W. P. Jordan, John Eversman and H. E. Newbury. Those absent were: Messrs. A. H. Montville, H. W. Sigmon and Otis Marshall.

Among the numerous discussions pertaining to the health, safety and welfare of the employees was the subject of "Eye Injuries and How They Can Be Prevented." It was pointed out that since September 1st, 1943, there had been 57 eye cases treated in first aid. Of these, four were of such nature that they were sent to eye specialists in Asheville and Hendersonville. Even though none of these cases developed into anything serious, any one of the latter four cases could have easily resulted in the loss of an eye. In the interest of preventing eye injuries, even of the minor type, the committee adopted a new type plastic goggle and recommended that they be obtained for all employees in the Maintenance and Electrical departments.

OTT WHITESIDES is shown above holding his coat open while other members of the cast, Sang Lyday, Bill Bangs and Fritz Merrill are giving his new suit the once over. Ott is telling them that his new tailor, who works incidentally for only $4.00 per day, made it for him.

Interesting If It Is True

At the right Ott is dishing out a choice bit of gossip about Dopey Lance and the boys are eagerly listening as though that were the most important thing in the world.

CAREFUL BOYS—Shown below Fritz Merrill has just discovered a mouse and simultaneously all of the boys go up onto their chairs.

Office Bits

"Hats Off" to another bride—Mrs. R. L. Johnson, the former Miss Mary Ruth Snow. Both Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are employed in the Main Office. Katherine E. Anderson spent the week-end in Columbia with her husband, who is being transferred to another camp. Muriel Filkins writes us from New York that she has already landed a job and is quite pleased to be back. To our Office Force comes George Holmes and Fred Jordan in the Accounting department. "Dot" Hunter was quite the surprised one when she found out that her husband would be passing through town. The many heart broken friends of Ted Gentry mourn along with his wife and family his accidental death that happened when his plane crashed in Asheville. Reba Russell returns from a trip to Greensboro to see her husband. Reba says Charlie is getting along fine with his store-bought teeth. Why is Mary Paxton in such a flutter? Could it be that Dec. 16th is the date? We were all quite pleased to see the face of Dewitt Drake once again. Dewitt was only here for a short visit, but we hope that he will be back soon.
