Miss Johnson And Pvt. Nicholson Are Married Dec. 19th

Miss Elizabeth (Tootsie) Johnson became the bride of Pvt. George Nicholson on Sunday, December 19th, at the First Methodist church in Hendersonville. Mrs. Nicholson is the daughter of Mrs. Mitchell Glover Johnson and the late Mitchell Johnson, of Hendersonville, and was employed in the main office of Ecusta.

Pvt. Nicholson is the son of Mrs. William P. Bane and the late Z. Arlington Nicholson of Hendersonville. The couple will reside in Greensboro, where Pvt. Nicholson is in training.

Miss Galloway Weds Frederick L. Jordan

Miss Lucille Fisher Galloway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pleasant Galloway, Jr., of Rosman, was married to Frederick Loring Jordan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyda Jordan, of Asheville and Norfolk, in a candlelight ceremony Friday afternoon, Dec. 24th, at Calvert Baptist church, Calvert.

Rev. J. R. Owen performed the ceremony and a program of wedding music was given by Mrs. J. R. Owen of Asheville, pianist, and Mrs. Eva Israel Duckett, former college roommate of the bride.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. Van Buren Huggins of Rosman, sister of the bride, served as her matron of honor. Jo Anne White, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William White, of Rosman, served as flower girl. Burder W. Teague, of Brevard, who works in the machine room of Ecusta, served as the bride-groom's best man, and ushers were Roy Fisher, of Rosman and Coy Fisher, of Brevard, uncles of the bride, Harvey Souther, of Brevard, who works in the main office of Ecusta, and William White, of Rosman.

After the ceremony an informal reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Burder W. Teague, of Brevard, who works in physical laboratory, and Mrs. Eva Israel Duckett, of Shallote, presided at the punch bowl.

Mr. Jordan has been honorably discharged from the Army Air forces and is now employed in the accounting department of Ecusta.

You Can Knit A Sweater Like This One

Rally around with the knitting needles and see who can be the first in your crowd to sport a cardigan like this. Classic in design, it has a wide, snug waistband and a deep V-neck, just right for wearing over blouses. Nice for chilly evenings in under-heated houses. Direction sheet for knitting this cardigan, No. 451, is available to you free of charge at the Library.

Miss Garren And Mr. Wilson Marry

Miss Jewell Faye Garren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Garren, of Route 1, Brevard and George Rass Wilson, son of Mrs. L. B. Wilson, also of Brevard, were married in Greenville, S. C. on Christmas Eve at 2 o'clock. Judge Guy Gullick officiated and the couple were unattended. The bride wore a navy blue dress with black accessories. After spending Christmas eve in Toccoa, Ga., the couple returned to the home of the groom's mother where they are residing at the present.

Mrs. Wilson was graduated from Rosman high school and is employed in the finishing department of Ecusta. Mr. Wilson was graduated from Brevard high school and is employed in the Wheeler Hosiery Mill in Brevard.

Our Book Corner

to spend his sick leave. It is also the story of Donegal village of Kildooey where they stay together. THE SIGNPOST is exciting in its deep fathoming of human character and experience; but there is more to it than that, for England and France are in it, as well as Ireland, and the Kildooey signpost that points the way to Dublin may be a symbol of the times. The story of Kildooey, in true Irish style, is a mixture of paradoxes; of great courtesy in small things and carelessness and cruelty in great; of evil that comes

Now Is The Time To:

- Buy Defense Stamps.
- Put up bird feeders.
- Darn Shorty's socks.
- Pot an amaryllis bulb.

- Place baby chick orders.
- Read Whittier's "Snow Bound."
- Write cheerfully to the boys in the service.
- Dunk buckwheat cakes in sausage gravy.
- Clean out that 'overstuffed' closet upstairs.
- Get waste paper together for the government.
- Look at the shoes you are wearing. Now polish.
- Bake a good, old-fashioned apple pie for Dad.

from good intentions and good that springs from hatred and malice; of misdirected loyalty and cruel kindness. So if you wish to be charmed and amused, you should read THE SIGNPOST.

NOTICE TO ALL DEPT. REPORTERS
Deadline For Feb. Issue Is Tues., Feb. 15th

Please get copy in early, if possible.

LET'S HANG TOGETHER—Add to your list of good wartime living habits the practice of saving string. Sisal, from which more than eighty percent of all our binder twine is usually made, has long been restricted to military uses; and we can't produce enough string and rope from other materials to keep up with all demands. Remember that each time you accept an unwrapped package from a salesclerk you're helping to conserve two scarce materials—paper and string.

FOR RENT—Some stores have adopted the practice of renting instead of selling scarce equipment to their customers—floor polishers, vacuum cleaners and even pressure canners.

RATION TOKENS—Producing and distributing a billion ration tokens is a big job. For that reason we won't start using them all at once. We'll begin with the blue ones for processed foods early this year; the red ones won't be distributed until late in February.

BREAD SPREAD—From now on you should begin to notice some improvement in your grocer's stocks of jams and jellies. When the government saw that we were going to be short of butter this winter, it tried to compensate for it by getting plenty of fruit and sugar to the jam and jelly makers. Even so, the supply won't quite catch up with demand before January.

FLAVOR TO TASTE—DIFFERENTLY—There may be chocolate candy this winter, but there's certain to be less of the peppermint kind. Eventually you may notice some difference in the taste of some toothpastes and medicines. Reason: This year's commercial mint crop didn't do as well as last year's. Meanwhile, in addition to its ordinary uses, oil of peppermint has taken on the job of substituting for menthol, which is normally imported from Japan.

LEST WE FORGET—If your ration seems meagre to you, it's a salutary thing to remember that if Canada were to ration canned vegetables there would be enough to give each person only one can every sixteen weeks.

BAND NOTES

The band is now entering its third year in February, at which time we will also celebrate the second anniversary of our band.

A party has been planned for February 5th at the home of Frank Kerber. We are all looking forward to a most enjoyable evening.

It hardly seems possible that the band has been in operation for two years. Of course, it has seemed hard for most of us at times, but with the determination of director and all the members, we are slowly climbing.

Band members, let's all start the New Year by making as our first resolution to attend all rehearsals regularly. If we redouble our efforts, it will bring more success for the coming year.
