Measuring Belts And Getting Them Ready For Shipping

Endless Belt Is A Busy Place

This is truly a busy place. Nearly 100 persons are employed in the Endless Belt corporation plant and over 2,000 belts are made every day. These belts are used on cigarette machines to carry the cigarette paper so they can pick up the shredded tobacco in the process of making cigarettes.

Shown above is a picture of the front of the Endless Belt employees with the entrance to the plant in the background.

To the right is the measuring and shipping room where the belts are measured and made ready for shipping and at the bottom is a picture showing the factory in action. The famous endless belts are made on these machines.
