Just Little Hunks Of Real Stuff!!

The moon is gradually slowing the earth's spin. As a result, the days are now lengthening at the rate of one-thousandth of a second a century. At this rate, when the day has increased to 47 of our present months (for the months are also lengthening, although more slowly), the day and the month will be equal The popular hymn ROCK OF AGES was written on a playing card, the only piece of paper Augustus Toplady could find when he composed the song while taking shelter from a storm in the cleft of a large rock at Barrington Coombe, England, in 1775.

The following are items resurrected from the columns of music and theatrical critics. "An amateur string quartet played Brahms here last evening. Brahms lost." . . . "I have knocked everything but the knees of the chorus girls, and God anticipated me there." . . . "Her performance belongs rather in a sandwich than on a stage."

During the hunting season in England, fox hunts have the right of way over railroad trains . . . Indian Chief's definition of skiing: "Whoosh! Then walk a mile." . . . An eastern riding academy advertises "scented saddle horses." It seems there is a shaving cream manufacturing company nearby where a good deal of the soap is wasted when tubes break and so on. The riding academy buys it for very little and shampoos its horses with it, leaving them a pleasant, rather exotic fragrance.

The U. S. Government distributes annually six yards of cloth to each of more than 4600 Indians on western New York reservations as fulfillment of a treaty made in 1794, for which the Indians agree to refrain from war against the settlers . . . The longest candle in history is in Naples. It was put up in 1924 as a memorial to Enrico Caruso, is 18 feet tall, seven feet in circumference, and weighs three tons. It would burn for 100 days . . . Many centuries ago, in the lands about Persia, the horses of departed men were made to weep for them at their funerals. It was done by placing mustard seed in the nostrils of the animals . . . The newest in mousetraps is a device which electrocutes the mouse when it nuzzles a piece of cheese.

GLADYS MCKINNEY works in the Finishing department.

WALTER ASHWORTH is employed in the Mill office.

SURE DO

Women and telephones both repeat what they hear, but the telephone repeats it exactly.

OBLIGING

The Scotchman helped his friend out with his income tax by going to live with him as a dependent.
