Your Guide To Daily Living

From Washington Bureau

SEAMS WITHOUT STITCHES

Textile experts believe that eventually many clothing seams can be glued or resin-bonded so that you can iron a dress together instead of sewing it. Army experiments which resulted in non-stitched seams for tents and tarpaulins are continuing in the hope that a flexible and washable process for putting uniforms together without thread and needle can be found. Meantime, manufacturers working with some of the new plasticized fabrics are trying out the same idea.

DOCTORS ON THE WAY The Army is releasing more doctors all the time, but it must keep enough to handle demobilization and to see that each soldier gets a thorough health check-up before he is returned to civilian life. By June of this year, all but 11,000 Army doctors will be civilians again.

TOWARD BETTER TEETH

The Public Health Service says that most tooth inspections made in schools never result in actual dental work being undertaken. It estimates that less than 30 percent of our population is getting the proper amount of dental care. These facts, plus a decline in the number of dentists, account for its interest in dental care and research bills now before Congress.

SELF-SERVICE is spreading to stores handling dry goods. New packaging and better labeling will make it feasible for you to shop among sheets and towels and piece goods much as you now do among fruits and vegetables.

MORE SPICE Cassia from China will add to your cinnamon supply this Spring, and all spice supplies will pick up gradually throughout the year.

HOME REMEDY FOR FABRICS Before this year is over, you'll be able to buy the wherewithal to give clothes and other fabrics water repellent treatments at home.

BOON FOR NIGHT DRIVING Within the next couple of years you'll be using fluorescent road maps which are visible at night. These special inks were developed for maps for the air forces during the war.

"What kind of oil do you use in your car?"
"Oh, I usually begin by telling them I'm lonely."

Now Is The Time To:

- Darn.
- Catch mice.
- Feed the birds.
- Prune apple trees.
- Catch up on sleep.
- See your dentist.

- Re-cover that easy chair.
- Be glad the boys are home.
- Celebrate Washington's birthday.
- Put a brighter light in the cellar.
- Tighten the spring in that window shade.

Sleeveless Slipons For Active Sportswear

Are you the tweeds and sportswear type? Then you'll like these sleeveless slipons with their neat, unfussy styling. The girl's model has a rounded neckline and a wide band of ribbing at the bottom for smoother fitting. A masculine ribbed pattern stitch fashions the man's sweater. Both are knitted of worsted floss, a medium weight yarn. (NOTE—A direction leaflet for making these SLEEVELESS SLIPONS, Leaflet No. 3810, is available to you free at the Library.)
