THE PICTURES

When a photographer needs some pictures to portray an event, a certain month, or some occasion, he needs only to turn to the children for an answer to his problem. They're always ready to cooperate . . . and the fact that they're very photogenic and so unaware of the camera's presence helps no end.

Aaron Masters (at left) is the student showing how disappointed and disgusted a boy can be with a report card that he's dreading to take home. His act is merely for the camera for he's really a good student. Dick Landeck took this excellent picture.

Below, five months old Donald Terry Metcalfe, sits unafraid in a spooky Halloween setting, seemingly unaware of the ghosts and witches which may have been haunting the area. Donald's father, Carroll, is in the Pulp Mill and Mrs. Metcalfe is the former Sue McCall of Control.

The future All-American being brought to earth by a playmate is Stanley Scruggs, athletically-built youngster of Mr. and Mrs. Hampton Scruggs. Mr. Scruggs is in Maintenance.

FOOD-SAVING PLAN GETS COOPERATION OF OUR CAFETERIA

Meatless Tuesdays And Poultryless Thursdays Being Observed

Our cafeteria is cooperating with the suggestions offered by Charles D. Luckman, chairman of the citizens food committee.

Menus at the cafeteria on Tuesdays have been planned in accordance with the government's request for meatless Tuesdays while poultryless Thursdays are being observed. The drive is voluntary, but the nationwide response has been encouraging.

We know that all Ecustans can be counted on to cooperate with the food-saving drive in their homes. The campaign is designed to provide food for the hungry and starving people of Europe.

If the splendid displays at the Harvest Festival in September are an indication, employees of our companies have ample supplies of foods to enable them to make a real contribution to the food conservation program.

dispatch from Lafayette, Bud's sister, Mrs. Vinton Soden of Los Angeles, was en route to Chicago where Mrs. Taylor was meeting the plane. It was reported here that Mrs. Soden was a buyer for a large store in Los Angeles and was making her last buying trip, before resigning November 1.

All 52 persons aboard the plane were killed.

The wreck was attributed to a fire which broke out in the baggage compartment of the Los Angeles-to-New York plane.

Spirit Of October: Report Cards, Halloween And Football

Along with the flaming transformation of the trees, October brought with it many significant events—especially for the children. Many received their report cards—and that may have been either good or bad news. Halloween is quite an experience, and there's always football.
