TAYLOR NAMED ALUMNI PRESIDENT

Improvements, 4-year School Are Discussed

In a radio interview on November 8, Roy Taylor, prominent attorney and newly-elected president of the college Alumni Association, said that he believes that Asheville-Biltmore should strive for admittance into the list of accredited junior colleges before attempting to establish a four-year school here. "And before we can have an accredited junior college we must have a better library, more elaborate lab equipment, and more qualified teachers," he added.

The program, "News and Interviews of Biltmore College," featured the interview of Mr. Taylor, along with news of the school.

MR. TAYLOR, who was a member of the first graduating class at Asheville-Biltmore, went on to say that he believes all boys and girls who possibly can should attend a good college. "Asheville is the only city its size in North Carolina," he said, "which doesn't have a four-year college. Students are going away from home so they can get into an accredited college. Why not keep them here where the city can benefit by it?"

"The Alumni association is growing steadily," asserted Mr. Taylor. "Its present objective is Bluet Publication To Appear In Dec.

The Bluet staff has announced that the publication was ready for the composer on Nov. 13. The staff has worked very diligently for the past several weeks and promises a literary magazine of interest. There will be a number of changes over issues of previous years. This year, for the first time in its history, Bluets will feature a number of pictorial items. The staff photographer, Ken Hobbs, has been busy collecting shots around the campus and in various other places around town to provide material for this new feature.

A request for articles, poems, short stories and features posted on the bulletin boards failed to bring any response from the student body. As a result, the staff has announced that there will probably not be many short stories included in the coming issue. Heretofore there has been a goodly number of first rate short stories in every issue of the magazine.

The publication will be ready for distribution about a week before Christmas.

AT THE MONDAY meeting, plans for the Sadie Hawkins dance, held in the Municipal clubhouse last Wednesday, were discussed and President Price discussed the formation of a charter which is now in the hands of a special committee.

Dr. Glenn L. Bushey was the principal speaker, advocating the establishment of a four-year college in Asheville. He also spoke of the new activities of the college and of the new clubs that have been organized this year.

The association elected Roy Taylor of Black Mountain, attorney and representative from Buncombe county in the legislature, as its new president. Other officers named are Mrs. Martin L. Nesbitt, of Asheville, vice-president; Miss Eileen Gambill, secretary, and Miss Margaret Hensley, treasurer.

CAPT. ROBERT Lee Smith, chairman of the board of trustees, spoke briefly in favor of Dr. Bushey's suggestion that a four-year institution be established.

Bill Reeves read the constitution of the association organized in the early 1930's and a committee was appointed to consider a memorial scholarship.

A. C. Reynolds, founder of the college and its first president spoke briefly and stated that he firmly believed that Asheville-Biltmore will be a four-year college in the near future.

Moser Is Elected Council Advisor

Mr Moser was elected faculty adviser of the Student Council at a recent meeting.

The Student Council of Asheville-Biltmore College has been organized for only three weeks; but it has already swung into action having sponsored many functions and with more in view for the future.

The Student Council sponsors a chapel program every two weeks. On November 6, they brought to the college a musical program by the Utah Centennial Quartet.

A clean-up campaign for the campus was sponsored by the Student Council on Friday, November 8.

A-B Holidays

Thanksgiving holidays will be from noon Nov. 24 to Monday, Nov. 29. Dr. Bushey has announced Christmas vacations will begin Dec. 20 and will linger until Jan. 4 instead of dates listed in the catalogue.

Senores, Senioritas To Organize Club

A Spanish club, under the direction of la senorita Miller, is being organized here at ABC. This is to be rather an exclusive organization, open only to superior students of the first and second year Spanish classes. At the initial meeting of the club last Friday, only six students were in attendance.

These boys and girls, including Mary Barker, Peggy Crompton, Pat Laughter, Frances McIntyre, Jack Wiggins, and Bill Roth, will comprise the charter group of the club. No other members will be admitted except by formal invitation. The invitations will be made out from a list of select students prepared by Miss Miller.

The Club, which has not as yet been named, will hold monthly meetings at the S & W Cafeteria. Its aim will be to promote the use of Spanish conversation among the Spanish students, and to increase knowledge of Spanish-speaking countries.
