Secretary Has Leap Year Marriage

The marriage of Miss Audrey Junita Aiken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Aiken of Asheville, to Mr. James Luther Garrison, son of Mrs. M. M. Sluder of Marion, North Carolina, was solemnized in a candlelight ceremony at the bride's home on February 14 at 8 o'clock.

The Reverend Vernon Hall conducted the service using the double ring ceremony. The room was decorated with white gladiolus, ivy and white candles.

Miss Mildred Thomas, pianist, presented a program of wedding music, including "Because" by d'Hardelot. The traditional wedding marches were used.

Mrs. Earl Taylor, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Mr. M. M. Sluder, step-father of the groom, was best man.

The bride wore a dress of shocking blue crepe, with black and white accessories, and carried a white Bible topped with a corsage of white roses, showered with satin streamers and sweet peas. The matron of honor wore a melon red dress with white mitts and a corsage of white carnations. The bride's mother wore a black dress and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony, an informal reception was held. The bridal table was covered with a cloth of lace and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. Assisting in serving were Misses Marian Holtzclaw and Katherine Sams.

After the reception, the couple left by motor for a wedding trip, after which they will reside at 93 Starnes Avenue.

At the present time, the bride is the secretary of Asheville-Biltmore College and the bride groom is a student at the college. W. L.

Superlatives Elected

Sophomore superlatives for the SUMMIT (annual) have been elected by the Sophomore Class and will be announced when the SUMMIT is distributed in May.

Final preparations for the dummy are being made and the book should be ready for the engraver by the end of this month. The editors have announced that this year the SUMMIT will be out in plenty of time for students to purchase them before graduation.

QUEEN MARY

A-B's Royalty Crowned

Mary Bassett and Joe Harrell were crowned Queen and King of Hearts at Asheville-Biltmore colleges annual Valentines Dance held the night of February 14, in the Governor Vance room of the Langren Hotel.

The ball was attended by approximately 100 students, guests and faculty members. Frank Messer, president of the student body, crowned the Queen and King, who then led the Grand March preceding the intermission. Ballot boxes were placed at the door and students voted from a list of 10 candidates including Katherine Sevier, Betty Jean Woody, Betty Ann Bishop, Neli Dean Owen, and Miss Bassett. Nominees for King are Graham Price, J. C. Mull, Carlyle Davis, Juliam "Mater" May, and Mr. Harrell.

Punch and cookies were served during the evening. Mrs. Glenn Bushey and Mrs. W. W. Hanaman presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. C. L. Lowrance, chairman of the social committee greeted guests at the door.

Decoration in red and white followed the Valentine theme arrangements of small hearts were around the ballot boxes and punch table. John Burroughs and his Orchestra furnished music for the dance.

Student members of the Social Committee in charge of the dance were Pat Sherrill, Mary Bassett, Shirley Walthers, Paul Raione, James Hensley and Johnny Tip-ton.

The dance was the first social event of the new semester.

Students' Choice

Ah yes, we now enter the throes of another election year. What's cooking? A savory dish called Americanism. Do you want to know the recipe? Here 'tis. Place a tablespoon of conservatism, a touch of radicalism, a teaspoon of reactionism, and a cup of liberalism in a large pot. Cap the lid on tightly, let boil for several months, and serve on election day.

For the past three weeks there has been a bit of chaos in the Democrat party. President Truman is really burning up the reactionary Democrats from the South with his equality issue which has to be hashed out sometime. "There is no time like the present," says Pete Grant. Incidentally, Pete is running for president in '69. He has opened his campaign headquarters in the bar of the Asheville Country Club. His platform is the top of the bar, and his issue is shorter skirts. Dewee Lovelace, a freshman, agrees with Pete on the shorter skirts' issue.

There is another name steadily gaining in the Presidential race. I believe the name is Wallace. H. Wallace, in fact. No. It isn't Herb. Please, let's don't associate Herb with Henry, because it is bad enough being called a radical. Anyway, Herb is contemplating spelling his name differently, W-a-l-l-a-c-e-e instead of W-a-l-l-a-c-e.

Ho ho ho ho ho, you guessed it. Yes, it is Rod Miller laughing at the inspector. Rod is a strong "Tory" Republican from the North. He is so confident of a Republican victory that he visits the post office, frequently saying, "I wish they would keep my post office clean." He is after the postmaster's job. How about a job next Christmas, Rod? If you see Rod running around with a copy of "Life", you can bet your bottom dollar that he is looking for someone to argue with. He is hard to get along with since the Republicans won the poll that was taken last week.

Tom Robertson is conducting a campaign for cheaper butter. Where is the anvil, Tom? Condolences, Tom. As everyone knows, Tom invested a fortune in silk. The recent market break wiped out Tom's fortune. Silk fell, and Tom was left holding the bag.

The Biltmore College students have spoken. The recent poll to determine the students choice for president in '48 was quite a success. Ask Rod Miller. The Republicans took the lead from the beginning. There were five candidates on the ballot and of course, the privilege of writing in the

College Group Holds Three-Day Convention

Nine students representing the Asheville-Biltmore college chapter of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations attended a three-day meeting of the State CCUN organization at Statesville Feb. 19-20-21.

Those who attended from A-B were Herbert A. Wallace, chairman of the local chapter, Rod Miller, Joe Morris, Frank Cauble, Paul Raione, Norman Bie, Jack Wiggins, Don McMahon and John M. Ctarter, faculty adviser.

The Statesville meeting opened with the registration Feb. 19, and a forum "The Fight for Peace," was held during the afternoon. The steering committee, of which Mr. Wallace is a member, met following a banquet at 7 p. m.

Guillermo Belt, Cuban ambassador, was the principal speaker at a banquet held Feb. 20. Several educational forums were held during the afternoon.

Two prominent speakers were present for the closing day of the meeting. Benjamin Cohen, assistant secretary-general of the United Nations, spoke at the CCUN luncheon, while Ambassador Henri Bonnet of France delivered an address at the 7 p. m. banquet.

The Asheville-Biltmore college chapter was recently organized after a representative group attended a previous state CCUN meeting in Statesville in November. In addition to Mr. Wallace, those on the executive committee

Psychology Project

The Psychology classroom will be a very busy place, according to the instructor Mr. A. M. Moser. Requirements for conducting an accredited course in Psychology have changed, and laboratory work must be emphasized if the class is to be accredited.

Mr. Moser says that in accordance with this, he intends to give much time to illustrating the uses of psychology in daily living and its importance in determining success or failure. To do this, he plans to ask students to act as subjects for informal interviews. He also wants to ask residents of Asheville who exemplify the various types to visit the classes to be interviewed.

Any student who innocently wanders too close to the classroom had better watch out, or they are liable to be corralled for an interview.
