

Art Review

By ELSIE KRONENFELD

Peggy Dodge said it — You can tell that a man painted the current show in Asheville Biltmore's Library. It is virile and has a lot of swing to it. I like the use of ink with other mediums. I think that Norman Sultan has what it takes. Mr. Bunker, of our Art Department, says to just wait until he — that's Mr. Sulton — reaches his peak. Does sound as if this reviewer thinks the shows are getting better and better. You are right.

The shows are beginning to do what a college gallery should do, expose new talent that is experimenting in new forms. A college is where the forward movements should first show up. Traditional art has homes all over. Museums must perform this task of giving permanent homes to things that reflect schools and trends.

HUMANITIES LECTURE SCHEDULE

- Jan. 3—Literature of the Renaissance — Dr. Riggs
- Jan. 5—Shakespeare — Dr. Riggs
- Jan. 10—Native Cultures of the Americas and Africa — Dr. Shorb & Mr. Bunker
- Jan. 12—The Expansion of the West — Dr. Pait

CHEERLEADERS

continued from page 2

- Marion Johnson, Co-captain
- Carole Carson
- Gail Thomas
- Denise Diamond
- Margaret Crownover
- Sandy Ledbetter
- Nancy Bates
- Linda Thompson, alternate
- Joyce Alexander, alternate

FACULTY SKETCHES

.. Coach Hartman

(Editor's Note: This is the beginning of a series that shall be devoted entirely to the purpose of enabling the A-B students to better know their faculty. Each article shall contain a short biographical sketch of an A-B teacher.)

Robert L. Hartman, former Purdue University quarterback, is Athletic Director and head basketball coach.

He also lettered in basketball as a guard and, in baseball, as a pitcher at Purdue.

A native of South Bend, Indiana, Hartman received his B. S. degree in physical education from Purdue, and the master of education degree from American University.

He has taught and coached high school basketball, football, and baseball in Jacksonville, Florida. During this time Hartman played on the Gibbs AAU basketball team for three years.

Hartman, now a Captain in the Army Reserve, began his military service with the Army and served as assistant athletic director of Fort Jackson, as assistant football coach under Beattie Feathers, and as head basketball coach.

Bob is married to a former South Carolina native, Carroll Simms, and they have four daughters.

Coach Hartman is starting his fourth year at Asheville-Biltmore; in three previous seasons, the Bulldogs have won 46 and lost 35.

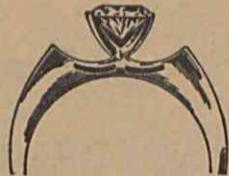

A-B Coach Bob Hartman in an afternoon practice session

BRIGHT'S JEWELERS
58 College St.
Asheville, N. C.
Guaranteed Watch Repairing

J. Pressley, Ltd.
44 Patton Avenue
Asheville, N. C.

Asheville's
Finest Fashion
Center for Men!

Girls Sweaters
Names You Know
Savings up to 50%
38 Deanwood Circle
(By Biltmore Country Store)
Phone 254-0454

Gordon's Jewelers
Features the Largest Selection of Keepsake & Orange Blossom Diamond Rings
Asheville Hendersonville
Canton, N. C.
It's Easy to Pay the Gordon Way

BALL PHOTO SUPPLY

8 WALL STREET
24 COLLEGE STREET

Your Kodak store for cameras, films and developing

The Sports Mart, Inc.
Whatever the Game — Remember the Name
32 Battery Park Ave.
Asheville, N. C. 28802

K-ETTEE CLUB NEWS

By DENISE DIAMOND

The K-ette Club of Asheville-Biltmore, in joining with the other organizations on campus, helped decorate the Christmas tree located in the lobby of the Ramsey Library. Hoping to establish a tradition on campus, decorations were donated to the library for use on future Christmas trees. With the help of Delta Phi Omega, K-ettes also donated the tree.

For a Christmas project, K-ettes is giving a needy family in the Asheville area a "Christmas Train" filled with gifts of food, clothes, and toys. After playing Santa Claus to the family on Christmas Eve, the club will go caroling.

New members of K-ettes are Kathy Wojtowski, Beverly Orr, Margaret Crownover, Linda Thompson, Nancy Kiser, Suzanne Newsome, and Ellen Bryan. As a fund raising project these new members are having a rummage sale, and with the proceeds are planning to buy a gift for the college.

LITERARY AWARDS ANNOUNCED

continued from page 1

or legal residence in the state and published during the twelve months ended June 30 are eligible for awards in one of these four categories. All volumes entered in the Roanoke-Chowan and AAUW competitions are also eligible for the Sir Walter Raleigh competition. A grand total of forty-nine books were in the competition for these awards in this year's judging.

In the morning session of the Association, meeting in the Hotel Sir Walter, Dr. Roy A. Riggs, Chairman of the Humanities Division here at Asheville-Biltmore, presented a review of the North Carolina fiction for the year. Dr. Riggs has served as a member of the Sir Walter Raleigh Board of Awards over the past several months.

*Looks Like Cashmere
Feels Like Cashmere
Wears Like Crazy
Cost Like Nothing Must Be*

Gold Cup

THERE'S NO SOCK QUITE LIKE GOLD CUP

We Have This Sock In 40 Colors!
$ 1.50 Buys Any Pair

stag shop
Bon Marche

now it's Pepsi
for those who think young

MISS MARIA BEALE FLETCHER

SEARS
ROEBUCK AND CO

LOST . . . at Buck's Drive-In. Wallet with three dollars and student activity card, blond girl friend, and Bernhard Altmann sweater. Finder may keep wallet and girl friend but please return sweater. It came from the Racquet Shop at The MAN Store. Write Box 2330, City.