

Restructuring:

Some Concrete Effects of The New Legislation on N.C.'s Universities

On Saturday, October 30 the General Assembly passed a far-reaching act which re-organizes all state supported higher education in North Carolina. The essential elements of the re-organization are as described herein.

The statement of purpose of Chapter 1244 of the General Statutes of North Carolina reads as follows:

"In order to foster the development of a well-planned and co-ordinated system of higher education, to improve the quality of education, to extend its benefits and to encourage an economical use of the state's resources, the University of North Carolina is hereby redefined in accordance with the provisions of this article."

"On July 1, 1972, the University of North Carolina shall be composed of the following institutions: (here are listed in six campuses of the University of North Carolina, as it now exists, plus the ten state campuses not now a part of the Consolidated University)." There will be no name change for any campus.

In order to illustrate the substance of the new statute the following chronological list of events is presented:

I. December 31, 1971

(A) Board of Trustees of UNC (now 100 members) selects 16 members to go on new Board of Governors; (B) Boards of Trustees, Regional Universities, select 16 members to go on new Board of Governors; (C) Board of Higher Education selects two non-voting members for Board of Governors (terms expire July 1, 1973); (D) Boards of Trustees for each of six campuses of UNC selected from trustees not going on

Board of Governors; II. January 1, 1972

(A) Newly elected Board of Governors with 32 members, and Governor of North Carolina serving as ex-officio

Chairman, becomes a 'Planning Committee. Has authority to elect a president, designate a location for the central offices, and plan for the new system of management.

III. July, 1972

SGA To Begin

New Film Series

The SGA seems to be having second thoughts about its movie program now. After spending approximately $1800. for films shown so far this year, or to be shown before the end of this semester, the SGA has noted that there is a lack of response by the students.

Warner Brothers has begun a new series of films which operate on a different scale than did the films shown previously. The new films are shown on campus with each person paying a nominal fee of 55¢ and then, Warner Brothers collects a percentage of the gate. It is a no-risk arrangement for the SGA. There is less of a chance that the students will end up paying $150. for a film that no one ever sees.

Much of the students confusion about the film series began in first term when films were advertised and never shown due to unavoidable technical problems. The new series of films offered by Warner Brothers includes "Joe", "Othello", "Camelot", and will start in January.

The money now paid by students for the film series will be redirected into other areas which might prove to be of more interest to the students, according to Gene Ochsenreiter, Chairman of the Social Commission of the SGA. The money may be applied toward the engagement of an outstanding speaker, or another concert in the spring.
