

Netters Downed In Meet

by Gene Spears

In their first meet of the season, the UNC-A tennis team hosted Illinois State University.

Illinois, still hot from a victory over Vanderbilt, managed a clean sweep in the six singles and three doubles matches played here Monday afternoon before a small number of spectators.

Of the three top players, Gene Szymanski, Rick Thompson, and Dave Ludlow, Gene Szymanski came the closest to taking his second set, 4-6.

The whole team was swept away on their first set, winning none of the six games which comprises a set.

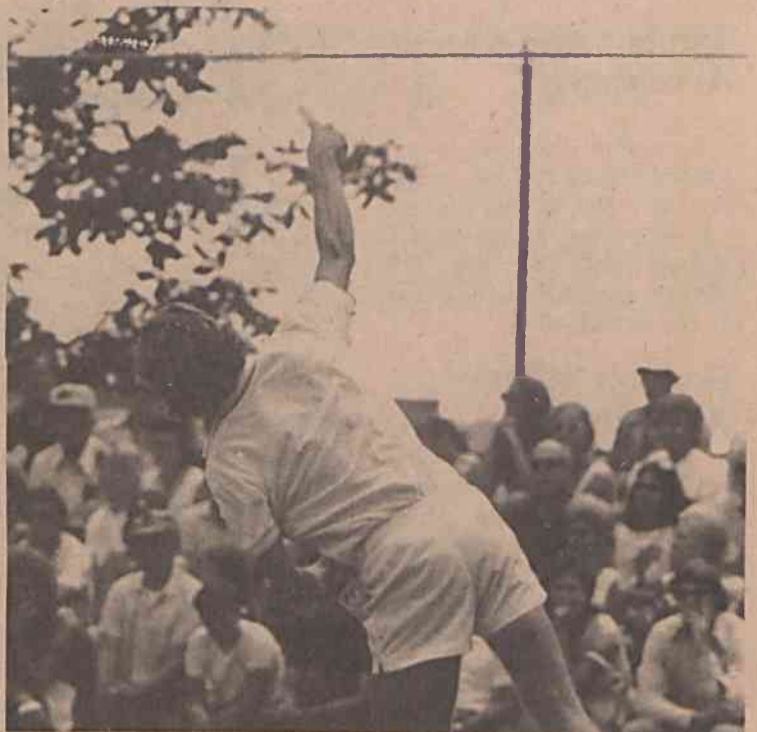

Bruce Holsten, Randy Tweed, and John Bolten were unable to take a game from the strong Illinois team.

Coach Fred Farzanegan indicated that weather and the spring break have kept his players off of the courts during practice season. The clay courts, which are better tournament courts, were still under repair.

Three tennis players are currently playing on a scholarship; Coach Farzanegan hopes to have more by next season. "I know of several who would like to come here, it's just a matter of maney," he stated.

Mars Hill is slated for the next home game when weathef permits.

Gene Szymanski does his thing at a tennis match against Illinois State. Szymanski nearly won his second set.
