

THE BLUE BANNER

Serving the students of the University of North Carolina Asheville since 1982

Volume VI, Number V

Thursday, February 21, 1985

Cagle reflects on past and future

By Penny Kramp

As the end of his term nears, Student Government President Ken Cagle can look back on two years that have brought him fun, frustration, and fame within the UNC system.

He has helped put UNCA in the public spotlight by being elected president of the North Carolina Student Government Association for the last two years.

He is the only student to serve on the search committee for a replacement for the University of North Carolina President William Friday, who announced his retirement last year.

When Cagle speaks of President Friday, his voice takes on a tone of respect.

"President Friday has an air of authority; a way of presenting himself. He is real open. He will come up to me and say 'How are you doing Mr. President?'" said Cagle.

Cagle said replacing him is not an easy job.

"We are looking for somebody who will stay in the same track as UNCA is in now — very service oriented toward students," said Cagle.

"If there is anyone I would like to be it is William Friday," said Cagle, who hopes to follow in his idol's footsteps as an administrative educator.

Staff photo by Sylvia Hawkins

DR. MARTHA LIVINGSTONE (Sarah Manley) hypnotises Agnes (Tanya Thomas) in Theatre UNCA's Agnes of God. The play opened last night and continues through Saturday.

Cagle plans to begin his climb to Friday's heights by applying to the UNC-Chapel Hill School of Law.

"Let me show you something," said Cagle, and hands over a letter from UNCA Chancellor David Brown wishing him luck on his aspirations to law school.

Cagle is constantly scurrying around to find information, as though to read something in print somehow makes it more believable.

"Wait a minute, I know I had that written down somewhere. Pat, Pat, did you see that sheet on the last board meeting?" Cagle shouts to his vice-president, Pat Cabe.

In the midst of questioning, Cagle suddenly leaps up and exclaims, "Have you seen our victory bell?"

He bounds into the other office, where a miniature version of the Philadelphia Liberty Bell sits in the middle of the floor.

"Boy this thing can make some noise!" he said and then tips the bell to the side so a resounding "bong" sends a tremor through the tiny room.

It is probably this kind of boyish enthusiasm that has contributed to Cagle's popularity and helped him to stay in office for two terms.

In fact Cagle reminds one of the boy next door. His face could grace any Clearasil advertisement. His dark blond hair dips neatly over his left eye

Continued on page 3

Swain begins 24 hour lock Stranger roams dorm

By Penny Kramp

Swain Dormitory began the first 24-hour lock-up in UNCA's dorm Village after an unidentified man confronted several residents Saturday.

Witnesses described the man as having reddish-blond hair and mustache, standing about 5'8", in his early 20's, clean cut, and wearing a navy blue ski jacket with a red stripe.

A Craig resident, Mary Beth Nelson, first saw the intruder Friday night about 8:15, only minutes before someone tried to break into her room.

"I was on my way to my room from Vance Hall when I noticed this guy standing on the stairs between Swain and Aycock. He kept on staring and staring at me," said Nelson.

Nelson continued on to her room. She said she was the only one on the hall at the time.

"It was no time at all, when I heard the hall lights click off and then someone began trying to force open my door," said Nelson.

"He tried a couple of times and then quit. I waited about 10 minutes then threw open my door. He was standing in the corner and when he saw me he pushed me out of the way and ran," said Nelson.

Swain resident Susan Matthews was in the shower Saturday morning about 9:45 when a man's hand slid between the shower curtains.

"I grabbed a towel and it must have startled him because he left," said Matthews.

Matthews said she rushed to her room and saw a man standing in her hall.

"I asked him what he was doing and he said he was waiting for someone," said Matthews.

Meg Johnson, Swain's resident hall assistant, had the same kind of encounter about 10 a.m. Saturday.

"I was leaving my bath-

continued on page 9

STUDENT GOVERNMENT PRESIDENT KENNY CAGLE and UNC President William Friday.

WIN $$ WIN

FIFTY DOLLARS await some smart and lucky UNCA student. But he or she appears about to pass them by!

Unbelievable as it may seem, no one, but no one, entered The Blue Banner Trivia Trap last week.

Perhaps the questions were too difficult for busy students to answer. Perhaps no one realized that real money, real American dollars, are being offered to the winners.

To sweeten the pot a bit, the Banner will give $5 to whoever first correctly answers this week's three trivial questions. This lucky person then has a chance to participate in a trivia play-off match between winners.

Bring answers to the following three EASY questions to the Banner office, CH 208A, by Tuesday noon, and the money is yours:

1. What 2 minerals does bone contain?
2. What novel largely takes place in East Egg and West Egg, N.Y.?
3. How many moons is the planet Uranus known to have?