TRIP: SOLO Wilderness First Aid

TIME/DATE: Feb. 2-3, 2002

The S.O.L.O. Wilderness Medicine School will be coming to UNCA in early February with its Wilderness First Aid Course. This class is a must for anyone who regularly spends time in the wilderness. Accidents can and do happen on ropes courses, along country roads, or in the backcountry, and too often members of a group are not capable of dealing with the emergency. Not only does this lead to improper care of the patient, it also endangers the entire group. Studies have shown that many recreational accidents are preventable, and improper care of trauma can compound even the simplest of injuries. SOLO provides training courses which stress preparedness and prevention; training which encompasses all phases of off-road emergencies; training which focuses on extended care issues on prolonged transport situations. This course consists of 16-hours covering topics ranging from preparation and prevention to assessment and treatment.
