Campus

Campus Events

by Natalie Jones

Staff Reporter

Caribbean chestra: Noted music group bo Caribbean Steel Orchestra be at UNCA for a workshop performance.

wabo will present a drumming kshop in the Highsmith wersity Union's Mount Pisgah at noon. They will perform concert at the Highsmith versity Union Café at 8 p.m.

27 Concert: UNCA's Jazz mbo will present a concert at p.m. in Lipinsky Auditorium. tured compositions include by George Gershwin, ngo Santamaria and Duke lington. Admission is $5 at the Meditation Club Meeting: The editation Club will be meeting at p.m in room 103 of the hsmith University Union. The ting is open to everyone. For information, rgaret Paige at 252-9667.

"Asheville Revisited:" An art hibit featuring 25 paintings by al artist Gloria Gaffney will be display at UNCA's Blowers lery. This is the last day of the thibit. The exhibit includes oil ntings and pen and ink drawof downtown Asheville. wers Gallery is located on the main floor of Ramsey Library and ppen during regular business

Spring Ceramics and Art Sale: NCA's Art Department will hold nnual Spring Ceramics and Art e from 4 to 7 p.m. in UNCA's en Conference Center. There Il be a variety of functional and orative items crafted by UNCA dents. Prices begin at $5. ceeds will benefit the art

Out of Many Waters" Painting Exhibition: The "Out of Waters" exhibit opens at INCA and will be on display until May 11 at University Gallery. The whilst will feature a variety of aintings by UNCA senior Cindy Miton. An opening reception will held from 6 to 8 p.m.

"Dissections: Synthesis" Art

eter exhibition: The "Dissections: ynthesis" exhibit opens at UNCA and will be on display until May in UNCA's Owen Hall second loor gallery. The exhibit will feaone 50 drawings by UNCA senior Auron Darty. An opening recepon will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. in _OVE he gallery

"Atmospheric Conditions" cramics Exhibit: This exhibit is caluring 60 functional ceramic wes by UNCA senior Heather wman and will be on display May 15 at UNCA's ighsmith University Union lery. An opening reception will held from 6 to 8 p.m. in the callery. The gallery is free and sometiment to the public from 8 a.m. until 0 a.m. until midnight on the

April 30

pring Ceramics and Art Sale: NCA's art department will hold Is Innual Spring Ceramics and Art Sale from 10:00 a.m. until 2:00 in the Owen Conference

Mim Lav 1 UNCA Strings Concert: The LOS Concert Band, University Singers, tring Ensemble and String Nartet will perform at 4 p.m. in msky Auditorium. Admission

SEE EVENTS, PAGE 42

tion, according to Paceley. he $5 at the door. uegrass Jam: A bluegrass jam leed will feature acoustic music by JNCA students, and will be held om 9 p.m. until midnight in the

"We are going to keep all of this year's proceeds local."

Stephanie Hedrick senior psychology student all of them were students. Some people decided to join after witnessing the event at the mall, according to Hedrick.

"We had this girl last year who had hair down to her knees, and she shaved her head," said Hedrick. "One lady had a grand-

People are welcome to walk up money, according to Hedrick.

keep the event at the mall."

"We are going to keep all of this year's proceeds local," said Hedrick. "This year, our proceeds will go to Mission Hospital's or cut their hair this year, and not

Haircut party raises money to battle cancer daughter who died of cancer."

and either participate or donate The group raised more money at the mall than on campus last year. That unexpected outcome resulted in an adjustment in the way the Haircut Party will be handled this

Participants raised a total of $5,000 last year, $4,000 of which they raised off campus, according

"Last year's event was at the Asheville Mall from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., and then we moved back on campus," said Hedrick. "We didn't get as much money on campus, so this year we are going to

About 70 percent of the money raised last year went to the National Childhood Cancer Foundation. This year, Alpha Xi Delta felt it would be better to use the money locally, according to Members of Alpha Xi Delta help raise money for pediatric cancer research at the sorority's annual Haircut Party. The event raised $5,000 last year, and raised $4,000 of that off-campus.

Children's Oncology ward."

Mission Hospital's pediatric and adolescent cancer care treats patients from infancy to their late teenage years. Patients receive care for many different illnesses leukemia, brain tumors and other solid tumors.

Participants stated a variety of reasons for participating in and raising money for the event.

"Both of my grandparents died of cancer last year, and they really respected pediatric cancer research," said Erin Donahue, sophomore history and education

Participation in the event honored her grandparents' wish that more money be spent on children's cancer, according to

"I heard about it last year, and I decided I would do it this year," said Megan Gray, junior environmental studies student. "I heard about it about one month ago at a SOC meeting.

Gray said she plans to cut her hair very short, but not shave it. "It's a good cause, and my hair will grow back," said Kari O'Dell, sophomore economics student. O'Dell said she has raised around $600, mostly from family. "This year, we will be on the radio on April 28," said Hedricks.

'We will also be live on 13 WLOS April 29.'

13 WLOS will air the event at noon April 29.

"I think that sorority girls get a bad rap," said Hedricks. "Even if grandparents died of cancer last year, and they really

"Both of my

you don't like sorority girls, you can join us in an event like this."

respected pediatric cancer research."

Erin Donohue sophomore history and education student

Panel agrees: Acquaintance rape is never the victim's fault

by Nealy Bernard

by Jessica Chale Staff Reporter

Several students agreed to cut their hair or shave their heads in support of Alphi Xi Delta's effort to raise money for Mission Hospital's childhood cancer oncology ward.

"Basically, we go out in the community and the campus community and find people who are willing to shave their heads or cut their hair," said Stephanie Hedrick, philanthropy chair of Alphi Xi Delta and senior psy-

"Professional stylists will be

The Haircut Party is not there doing the cutting and shav-designed to donate the trimmed hair. Instead, participants raise money by soliciting donations,

"A lot of people think this is Locks of Love, but it isn't," said

Hedrick. "With Locks of Love, you have to have 10 inches of hair and it is not offered for people

The hair length becomes more

"A lot of people will call and say, 'I've been growing my hair out,'" said Hedrick. "We will donate the hair anywhere we can, but we aren't greatly affiliated with the organizations that would

This year's Haircut Party will

'We will have all of our spontake place in the Asheville Mall's food court from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

sors there," said Hedrick. "The Asheville Tourists have been helping us, and they will have their mascot there. A lot of the kids from Mission's cancer ward

Six participants agreed to shave important to the Locks of Love project than how much money is raised, according to Hedrick.

chology student.

according to Hedrick.

who have short hair."

accept hair donations."

will also be there."

April 30.

A panel of counselors and educators explored the issue of "acquaintance rape" on college campuses in a discussion held at

"I definitely got emotional during certain points of the discussion, not because I've been sexually abused, but merely because I am a woman, and I am in college. I do get angry when I hear the common viewpoint that it is the woman's fault," said Laura Eshelman, undeclared sophomore. "I like the fact that they brought to light that it is not the straightforwardly. Approximately 90 percent of the time, a rape victim knows their attacker, whether it's a date or just someone they know from around campus, according to Megan Paceley, a community victim's fault. They said that very educator for OurVOICE. "OurVOICE is a sexual assault center for Buncombe County," said Paceley. "We have been around for a little over 30 years."

OurVOICE started out as The Rape Crisis Center, which served five counties. As of July, they will only be serving Buncombe County. name changed to OurVOICE five years ago. VOICE is an acronym which stands for victim, outreach, intervention, counseling, and educa-

The discussion panel included UNCA Outreach Coordinator and Counselor Maggi Saucier, Megan Paceley, OurVOICE Crisis Line Coordinator Neela Rao and Laura Walton, senior psychology student and OurVOICE volunteers. "I liked it because it was really open and it was a small setting,' said Galen Goodrum, sophomore

"I definately got emotional during certain points of the discussion."

> Laura Eshelman undeclared sophomore they could talk about it, and it was mostly guys that were talking, surprisingly. It was very informa-

That males in the audience outnumbered the females in the audience is very optimistic, and demonstrates that there is a lot of concern for the issue from all gender perspectives, according to Goodrum said the fact that the rape victim's attire or looks has nothing to do with the rape is surprising. It is a misconception that dressing provocatively is an invitation for sex. OurVOICE doesn't talk about avoiding or preventing rape, because can put the responsibility on the victim to prevent the assault from happening. They do drinking alcohol. Paceley said it is important to remember that, no matter what happens, the crime is never the victim's fault. The blame instead belongs 100 percent to the perpe-

"I would encourage victims to talk to somebody, whether they want to report it or not is up to them," said Paceley. "The sooner somebody talks about what happened to them the less likely they are to develop post traumatic just males, but students in general, stress disorder. Talk to your Spanish student. "People felt like friends, talk to your counselor, call OurVOICE. Just talk to somebody about it."

The UNCA counseling center offers individual counseling for any problem that a student may It does not have to be related to academics, because any personal problem can potentially affect a student's academic performance. Every UNCA student gets 12 counseling sessions a year at no charge, and each session lasts 50 minutes, according to Saucier.

'A lot of us, and I think women do this a lot, solve our problems during the telling," said Saucier. "A lot of people just come because they want to talk, and they want somebody to sit there and listen, and not judge them or tell them what to do.

Students also come to counseling to talk about depression, anxiety, stress, relationship issues and anger management, according to

"I think if more girls knew where to go then they might seek out resources to help themselves," said Eshelman. "They did say that most college campuses don't have an on-campus rape crisis center. For friends of mine that have suffered sexual assault, they said that it would help them to have a cen-

One in three women will be sextalk about risky behaviors like ually assaulted in their lifetime, compared with one in six men. Children, the elderly and people with disabilities are more vulnerable than other people, according to Paceley.

Students should know that they can report sexual assaults to the Campus Police or the Buncombe County Sheriff's Department. Victims don't have to choose one. They can go to both, according to

"I wish that more students, not could understand that it is not the female's fault, and also understand the mentality behind everyone involved in the conflict," said Eshelman.

"That was my favorite point in the panel discussion. They even discussed the rapist's point-ofview, and that was a good way to OurVOICE currently has seven staff members and is growing. April is sexual assault awareness month, so their events are slowly winding down, according to "I don't know if I necessarily learned anything that I didn't know before," said Eshelman. "I guess I just gained another opportunity to speak my voice on an issue that I feel strongly about."

"People felt like they could talk about it, and it was mostly guys that were talking, surprisingly."

> Galen Goodrum sophomore Spanish student

COME TO MAMA! MAMA CITAS MEXICAN GRILL 77A BILTMORE AVE. DOWNTOWN ASHEVILLE WE'RE NOT A CHAIN!

rench Broad Room of the "The shamith University Union.