

STRIDING TOWARDS A MORE DIVERSE
&
INCLUSIVE
CAMPUS

VOTE
Davis
&
Anderson
2018

New SGA leaders after student decision

MAGGIE HADDOCK
News Editor
mhaddock@unca.edu

KATIE COUGHLIN
News Staff Writer
kcoughli@unca.edu

Michael Davis and Kimani Anderson will serve as the Student Government Association president and vice president for the 2018-2019 academic year. Initiatives for their administration, reflected by the candidates themselves and members of the student body, pertain to issues of diversity and inclusion.

Rivaling presidential candidate Lauren Bulla said she is excited to see each candidate who ran in the election accompanied by thoughtful initiatives for SGA.

"I truly am so happy with the way the candidate pool turned out I think there are some really amazing ideas and people coming to light," Bulla said.

Davis was unavailable for comment regarding the election results.

In a close race between presidential candidates, Davis won by a mere 27 votes, while Anderson won the vice presidential election against Dora Tovar election by only eight votes.

Anderson said he views UNC Asheville as a utopia regarding the community's views, but he also acknowledges where the community needs to progress.

"Sometimes the intentions are not necessarily pure or as pure as they're intended to be," Anderson said. "One of the things that I would like to change is how we come off in terms of you know what we want to do and what we plan to do for the

POSTER COURTESY OF MICHAEL DAVIS

After running on a platform based around diversity, Michel Davis and Kimani Anderson squeezed by to win the SGA election and will be serving as the president and vice president of the student body next semester. Davis won by 27 votes, while Anderson won by 8.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 19