

Nuclear War

Union's "intervention" into Afghanistan, the United States Congress has suspended the SALT II treaty debate.

This might make one wonder if the Soviet Union is serious about nuclear arms limitations.

A second grade child in the Soviet Union is acquainted with civil preparedness (in the event of a nuclear attack), and is required to partake in systematic training up to age 60. A factory worker in the Soviet Union spends two-to-four hours a month drilling in the factory's underground shelter, which is complete with food, water, bedding, and is large enough to accommodate the largest work shift.

CIA sources claim that at least 75 shelters are peppered in and around Moscow and other major cities. These shelters, described as "huge spheres" of metal, are 600 feet underground, and are equipped with communications networks. It is supposed that these shelters are large enough to accommodate the higher ranking officials of the Soviet government.

Huge grain storage tanks are buried throughout the Soviet Union, some filled with grain acquired from the United States.

These grain shelters are located between industrial centers. And Russian industry is situated so that only a direct hit could destroy all of the buildings of a single factory. Geographically, industry takes up about 2.7 per cent of the Soviet Union's land mass--nine

It's A Bird; It's A UFO; It's..LRC

What is an LRC? All students get a distorted picture of the Learning Resources Center at UNC-A when they get their ID made or validated. Some come back to get something "SAVINED".

This is not at all what a learning resources center normally does. At some schools, the LRC is the entire library, with a media center built in, housing books, microfilm, journals, records, tapes, films, filmstrips, etc. At UNC-A, the LRC is separate from the Library, attending to the non-book media, primarily tapes, slides, films, filmstrips, transparencies, various other photo services, graphic arts, video-taping, etc.

What should it mean to you...the student (or faculty)? With everything going up--our services are FREE to both faculty and students. You may illustrate your class project with slides, transparencies, a videotape, a free film, or a combination of the above.

Some students have actually ordered films and videotapes for a class and the instructor was overwhelmed. Some have taken equipment out and filmed or videotaped history in the making; photographed and made slide/tape programs.

Creative solutions to mundane matters...this could sum up what the Learning Resources Center at UNC-A attempts to do. Give us a try. We are open from 8-4:30 daily, Monday-Friday, located in the Zageir Social Sciences Building, 1st floor, East.

French Majors Initiated by Honor Society

The University of North Carolina's Eta Psi chapter of the National French Honor Society, Pi Delta Phi, held its annual initiation ceremony and dinner on April 18, 1980, on the university campus. Initiated were French majors Marlene Burgin, Milton Conley, and Cathy Jones, as well as Phyllis Driver, a local French teacher.

Pi Delta Phi, the oldest foreign language honor society in the U.S., was founded at the University of California at Berkeley in 1906 and currently includes over 200 chapters nationwide. The Eta Psi chapter, established at UNC-A in 1974 by Drs. Mechthild and Philip Cranston, moderators, currently counts 26 members, including 8 honorary members from the university and secondary school faculties. The purpose of Pi Delta Phi is to recognize excellence in the field of French studies.

Miss Burgin, a junior in French and history from Old Fort and a graduate of McDowell High School, was a scholarship student in the UNC-A Oxford Program last summer. She is planning to pursue graduate studies in French medieval and Renaissance history.

Mr. Conley, a senior from Hendersonville, attended Fletcher Academy and studied at Collonges, France for a year before coming to UNC-A, where he is also a pre-med student.

Miss Jones, born in Washington, D.C., lived in Bruxelles, Bangkok and Tangier before coming to this area, where she graduated from East Hendersonville high school. At UNC-A, she is a junior in French and Literature.

Presiding at the initiation were Elizabeth Cavanaugh, recently awarded a grant by the Fulbright Commission for a year in France, and Sylvia Ruiz Pressley, a UNC-A graduate now teaching French at Owen High School.

Chapter officers elected for the 1980-81 school year are: Michael Stuart Lane, UNC-A alumnus now teaching Spanish and French at Christian School, president; Cathy Jones, vice-president; Marlene Burgin, secretary; and Elizabeth Parsons, graduating senior in French and Spanish, treasurer.

Who Wants To Play Some Golf?

The 13th annual Faculty-Staff Golf Tournament is set for Monday, May 19, at Grove Park Country Club.

The tournament is for everyone at whatever level of ability and capacity, according to Bob Daughton. That applies to refreshments and other games, Daughton said.

The tournament will begin at 1 p.m. sharp, he said. A car pool will assemble at the tennis court side of Justice Gym at 12:30. The fee will be $13. Use of motorized carts is according to individual choice; cart fee is $6.

The host this year after the tournament will be Joe Sulock. Directions to his home at 57 Fenner Ave. are as follows: From Kimberly take Edgewood Road back towards campus; turn right on Merrimon Ave. (at the light by the Gulf station). Go 300 yards and turn left on Fenner by the Sunset Court Motel.

The Sulocks' house is about 200 yards off Merrimon, number 57, all white.

The "Calloway System" of handicapping will be used again. There will be awards of "The President's Cup," "Low Gross" and "Hacker's Lament."

Call Bob Daughton at the gym, extension 222, to make reservations.
