Students Vote to Continue The Clarion

Last Friday at the assembly Miss Ethel Kerr, the Business Manager, made a plain statement concerning the financial situation of the paper. She showed that not enough subscriptions by two thirds had been received, and that The Clarion could not be continued under those conditions. Tom Graham then presented a plan whereby the entire student body would be formed into clubs by the dormitories in which they live. The day students will form another club. Each of these clubs to have a leader who will distribute the papers and make collections. This plan enables the club members to get the paper for twenty-five cents a quarter. This plan was they discussed and on motion was unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

The following club leaders have been appointed:

Taylor Hall	Ellis Frady
West Hall	Evelyn Cordell
Ross Hall	Frauk Penland
Virginia Lodge	Emma Martin
Sledge House	Emma Leape
Town Hall	J. J. Atkins
English House	Mitchell Faulkner
Day Students	Charlotte Patton

A Magazine Proposed

Miss Craig is anxious to have the class in creative writing publish some of their productions. The only way to assure this being done is to publish a magazine. It has been proposed that four or five issues of The Clarion be made magazine numbers. This will likely be done, but at present it is not sure. If this is done the first magazine number will be published in November. It will be printed on a better grade paper the pages being 6X9 inches. Such an arrangement would certainly make The Clarion more attractive and valuable to all of us. Let us encourage this movement.

Old Lady—Can't you cheer your little brother up and stop his crying?
Small Boy—No, he's just had five bananas, two hot dogs, and seven ice cream cones.

GLEE CLUB ORGANIZING

With Miss Charlotte Hatcher in charge the Men and Women's Glee Clubs are going to take a leading part in campus activities. Already, the girls are working on a selection.

Miss Hatcher, our capable leader, has announced that an operetta and a concert are to be presented before Christmas.

Anyone who is interested in joining the Glee Clubs may have his "tryout" this week.

Madame Vettori Returns

President Coltrane announced in Chapel that within a few weeks Brevard College will present a concert featuring Madame Elda Vettori, famed Metropolitan opera singer.

All students who heard Madame Vettori last year when she sang here agree that her marvelous performance was one of the most enjoyable events of the year.

Avon Players

The Avon players will present "Othello" in the college auditorium on the 29th. This is certainly a treat that every student should enjoy. The players are brought here by the cooperation of the College and the Brevard High School.

Boys' Opinion of the Girls' Rat Week

"Happy" Severs: Very cute, but they could have looked better.

Louis Williams: It was O. K.

Mitch Faulkner: It made the girls look natural.

Willis Turner: It was a lot of fun while it lasted.

Tom Graham: I think that it was very ludicrous.

Bud Gaston: It wasn't as good as the boys'.

"Batwing" Queen: Pretty messy looking bunch.

Ernest Pruett: Not much of a rat week.

What Is This?

If you do not know, you should get out and look around.

We are glad to present on the left the print from a wood cut made by one of our gifted students, Mr. Summers Maugans. Mr. Maugans not only makes cuts on wood and linoleum, but he is also an artist in making pen drawings. We hope to be able to use a good deal of Mr. Maugans work during the winter.

Campus Notes

Yesterday was President Coltrane's birthday. We extend to him our heartiest greetings.

Sinclair Deal and John Council were visiting away from the College last Sunday. Mr. Deal was with Mr. Charles Stackhouse at Tryon, and Mr. Council with Messers Guy and Carol Crawford in Asheville.

We are sorry that Miss Alice Scott is leaving because of illness. She will be greatly missed. We wish for her a speedy recovery.

Monday evening Boyce Helms was taken to the hospital for an appendix operation. We hope that he will soon recover and be with us again.

Two attractive assistants: Miss Edith Beard, enthusiastic over her biological duties. Miss Louise Ward may be seen industriously dusting the shelves in the chemistry laboratory.

Freshmen are having a time trying to get organized. Last week they elected officers, but some of them kicked about it. Yesterday they held a meeting under the supervision of Dean Buckner and decided to hold another election. We go to press before the results of the second election is known.

We recommend that Ferrell Young be appointed to fix the moon.

Girls' Opinion of the Boys' Rat Week

Rachel Orr: A little bit of lip stick and a little bit of paint makes a boy that's ugly look as if he ain't.

Vivian Moore: I think the freshmen boys are cute. Why don't they wear make-up all the time?

Ida Whisnant: I think it's being properly enforced, I heard several rats confess that they know now why a girl is always late. It takes a heap of time to get beautiful.

Ruth Coltrane: Boys, here is a hint to you. All the girls think you are handsomer with lots of make-up; so take my advice and continue your facial treatment! Luck to you!

Sara King: If you want to know how cold it is, just ask a freshman with pants leg rolled up.

A few girls at Virginia Lodge, perhaps, would be interested in knowing that Mr. Dendy is a member of the faculty, and not a mere freshman.

"Little" Audrey has a hard time getting enough to eat in the dining room. The waiter at his table has to borrow around to get something to fill the boy.

Mrs. Trammel says that she is going to start a faculty German class with Mr. Buckner and Mr. Cathey as promising pupils. Some of the boys and girls would like to listen in on one of these classes.
