The Significance of the Brevard College SEAL

By symbols this seal portrays Brevard College and what it stands for.

In the center there is a breast-plate or shield. This weapon of defense against the world has on it symbols to represent the most important characteristics of our college. The Cross and Crown are symbolic of the Christian life which is at the heart of the whole institution. The torch represents the light of civilization and is placed with the open book for modern civilization is based on intellectual achievement and a knowledge of the past and present and study for the future. The arm and sledge hammer are intended to represent the the work, the self-help side of the College.

At the bottom of the shield there is a figure of a youth standing on tip-toe with arms reaching upwards. This figure not only represents the youths of the student body, but it is intended to portray something of the youths' enthusiasm and dynamic drive. Reaching to the utmost this youth is striving, by means of work, study, and Christian living, to realize his hopes and see the dawn of a new day which is symbolized by the sunrise at the top of the shield.

The cross bands separating the symbols are to bear the college colors.

Encircling the shield is the name of the college, the date of its birth, and a motto on which the very existence of the college seems to rest: "Labor Learn Live."

Through "labor" this school enables many to obtain an education who would never receive it otherwise. "Learn" of course carries the thought of studies. "Live" includes both. Through labor and learning our students are enabled to meet the problems of the world and live and labor, more intelligent, and more Christian lives.

The motto and the date are in plain English in preference to Latin to emphasize the practical side of our college, claiming that it is good for people in general to know what we stand for and are striving for. The name of the College and the motto are placed together on the ring so that they will always be closely connected.

Methodist Student Conference Greensboro November 8 - 10

This conference is a gathering of Methodist students from all the colleges and universities in North Carolina. A conference of this kind in each State is being sponsored by the Methodist Church. Last year a large delegation went from here to the South Carolina Conference at Columbia. It was not possible to send a delegation to Raleigh when the North Carolina Conference met in that city. This year we want an even larger delegation to attend our own state conference at Greensboro.

A very fine program has been arranged consisting of worship services, discussions, music and addresses. The excellence of the addresses is guaranteed by the fact the keynote address is to be by Dr. Frank S. Hickman of Duke University and the closing sermon by Bishop Paul B. Kern. Addresses will also be delivered by Dean Elbert Russell, Dr. H. E. Spence, Dr. W. C. Jackson, Dr. Clyde Miller, and Dr. Harvey C. Brown.

The theme of the conference is "The Student Faces Life." With such a theme and such speakers it will pay all those who can to attend this conference.

Herd of Holstein-Friesian Cows Brought to the Campus

When the day of October 11th was not more than two hours old, President Coltrane was disturbed from his peaceful slumber by vigorous, determined ringing of the phone from Hendersonville. This call was to inform him that twelve pure bred Holstein-Friesian cows were on the way from the Stephens' Dairy in Greensboro to their new home on the Brevard College farm. Out under the shining moon, the President, like a latter day Paul Revere, made his way to various parts of the campus to arouse the proper persons in order to prepare a royal welcome for the bovine queens. Arrangements had scarcely been made and comfortable quarters provided when the queens arrived riding in a truck. By the time the roosters began their concert, Ralph Sheppard and Dickson Willis had become heroes, as they had completed milking the first dairy herd owned by Brevard College.

This herd came from the farm of Mrs. Jesse Stephens who is foremost in raising dairy cattle in her part of North Carolina. It is through the efforts of some Brevard College boosters and trustees that these cows were brought to the farm. It is hoped that before long another cow of even higher type and a young bull, both of which are donated by one of our trustees, Mr. R. O. Lindsay of High Point, will be added to the herd.

As soon as the new milk house is completed, three young men who go to the barn at four o'clock each morning, will return to bring wholesome nourishment to the hungry diners of the boarding halls. Most of the feed for these cows has been produced on the college farm during the summer months and only supplements will be purchased. It is hoped that proper feeding and care will soon bring the herd into full production.

Very much to our regret we are not able to give the names of these ladies of the stable. We have full assurance that they have names, but it was said that the names were tied up with pedigrees and could not be shipped with the cows. When the names arrive if you will go to the barn at milking time, Ralph Sheppard or Dickson Willis will give you a personal introduction to the cows.

Knowing Cows

Jethro Hoyle while looking over the cows remarked: "Why these cows are all bruised up."

Dickson Willis: "You'd be bruised up too, if you had ridden 250 miles in the back of a truck."

Jethro: "They weren't sitting down, were they?"

FRESHMEN Elect Officers

Last Wednesday the Freshman Class of about 250 members elected James Rogers as its president this year. Odell Salmon was elected vice-president; Santnik Nahikian, secretary; Ed Powell treasurer; and Mr. John A. Carlisle, faculty advisor.

Mr. Rogers is a resident of Charlotte where he attended the Central High School and was graduated with the class of 1934. He was student manager of the high school book store in his senior year. While in high school he was outstanding in athletics. He is assistant in the Business Manager's Office, member of the Delphian Literary Society, Methodist Club, Ministerial Band, Glee Club, vice-president of the Young People's Department of the Methodist Church, and a member of the church choir. He held a position with the accounting department of the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company until June of this year when he entered Brevard College for the summer quarter.

Odell Salmon of Winston-Salem is a graduate of Richard J. Reynolds High School of that city. While in high school, he was outstanding in athletics and journalism. He is on the Tornado football squad and a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Literary Society. Santnik Nahikian attended high school in Asheville where she was a popular student. Ed Powell comes from Swannanoa where he was outstanding in high school athletics.

The Freshman class is composed of students from several states and practically every county in North Carolina.

Mr. Rogers has announced that there will be a meeting of the class in the very near future to map out plans for the year.
