News-in-Brief

Glee Club Officers

On Wednesday, October 7 the Girls' Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Hatcher, elected their officers for the quarter. Those members elected to offices are Margaret Wilson, president; Brownie Lipe, vice-president; Jane Mitchell, secretary-treasurer. This group of officers will serve for one year; they will assist Miss Hatcher in any possible manner.

Home-Coming

The student council decided at their regular meeting last Tuesday night, to set October 31 as the definite date for home-coming. Several committees were appointed by the council president. The football team will meet Belmont here that afternoon, in the second home game of the season. All student organizations are open to assist the council in making this home-coming the best in the history of the College. Student officials hope that it will be possible to disband classes that day.

Reid in News

Recently there appeared in the "Asheville Citizen" and the "Charlotte News" a picture of Jack Reid with the under-caption stating his new honor as president of the Freshman Class at Brevard.

New Books

Recently the library received a shipment of new books. All college departments assisted in preparing the list of books that would be in this; therefore it included books on many subjects to satisfy the reading desires of practically all students. In this shipment was a book of Kipling's complete works. Also there was a book containing many of John Masfield's poetical works.

Physical Education

Coach and Mrs. Ranson have arranged several large classes in physical education for both men and women. Mrs. Ranson conducts classes for the women during practically all periods of the day; Mr. Ranson conducts the men's classes in the morning as he has football practice in the afternoon.

Student Council

Trip to Game Saturday

Permission has been granted to the Student Council to secure a truck in order that a number of students may attend the Brevard-Biltmore College football game at Asheville this Saturday.

The approximate cost of the trip will be seventy-five or eighty cents. This will include transportation to and from the game, admission to the game, and insurance.

Last year one of our students, Wilma Ferguson, had the misfortune to fall from the truck which had been chartered and was injured. The faculty is making provisions to prevent a recurrence of such an accident as this.

Price Cornelius

Miss Price Cornelius, well-known sophomore from Winston-Salem, was operated upon for appendicitis by Dr. Newland, local surgeon, at The Lyday Memorial Hospital last Wednesday night at ten o'clock.

Miss Cornelius had the first attack of appendicitis last Monday, and another Wednesday. She went to the hospital early Wednesday night and was operated upon shortly afterward.

It will interest her many friends to know that she came from under the influence of the anaesthetic very satisfactorily and may receive visitors Sunday.

Freshman "Talent Program"

The Delphian Literary Society will present a "freshman talent" program at its regular meeting in the auditorium tonight. Paul Benton will be in charge of the program.

Paul Benton has arranged a very interesting program consisting of a quartet which will render "The Martins and the Coys." The quartet will be made up of four freshman boys, Jack Taggart, Charles Scott, Sam Little, and Bill Landreth. A solo will be sung by Charles Scott, and a blackface skit will be given by Bill Rusher and Bill Landreth.

President Coltrane

Speaks on Finances

President E. J. Coltrane spoke to the students of Brevard College last Monday about the payment of bills owed the College. In his talk Mr. Coltrane discussed clearly and frankly the ways in which many of the students are paying their bills to this institution.

Some students pay seventy dollars to begin the quarter, others pay fifty dollars and the rest later, and some of our students pay their bills monthly. The day students pay twenty-seven dollars a quarter. Mr. Coltrane expressed his thoughts on how to save dimes. This, he said, applied to everyone, and to no one in particular. He showed us where each penny of the seventy dollars we pay each quarter goes, and he said that all bills should be paid the College a month in advance.

The government, according to Mr. Coltrane, has allotted Brevard College seven thousand dollars for N. Y. A. work. He also said that the college authorities were hoping for ten thousand instead of seven. The point in Mr. Coltrane's talk that applies to each and every individual is that we should keep our bills paid in advance, so that Brevard College can keep up its good record of paying its bills promptly.

Winners of Cheer

Writing Contest

Winners of the cheer-writing contest sponsored by the Student Council were announced and prizes were presented by James Rogers in chapel Wednesday morning, October 14.

The first prize of one dollar was won by Bill Landreth; second prize of two tickets to the Clemson Theatre was awarded to Elizabeth Quinn; and third prize of twenty-five cents in trade at Macfie's Drug Store was won by Mary Griffith.

The judges of the contest were Miss Smith, Miss Craig, Coach Ranson, Mrs. Ranson, and Mr. Bennett. The winning yells were selected by them from the forty six yells which were submitted by students.

Class Schedule

Shortened

A welcome announcement was made in chapel yesterday morning by President Coltrane when he said that classes would dismiss at twelve o'clock Friday and one o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Hikes will be arranged on Friday if the weather permits. There will be no assembly on either of these days. Classes will begin at 8 o'clock and will consist of six periods of equal length.

Sleep, Sleep, Sleep

By "Monk" Landreth

"Hurry, hurry, hurry! Come see the greatest hypnotist of the age perform the mystic ceremony of hypnotism on his helpless subject." So spoke the make-believe side show barker in front of room 218 of Taylor Hall one night last week.

Quiet hour had just ended when I was informed by "grapevine telegraph" that Creston Taylor, the Houdini of Taylor Hall, was going to exert the power of hypnotism upon his subject, Alvin Porter. I immediately took off on a flight up the stairs, and arrived as the show was about to begin.

The hypnotist commanded his subject to concentrate upon sleep, sleep, sleep. Slowly he dozed off. He was commanded to undress and take an ice-cold shower, which he did without flinching. He then went back to his room, found his pajamas, and put them on. The subject then danced, cried, barked like a dog, and spoke German. (At least it sounded like German.)

Mr. Taylor finally decided that we had had enough fun at the expense of Mr. Porter, so he awakened him, and the subject emphatically denied remembering any of the past events of the night.

Many persons do not believe in the mystic art of hypnotism, but I must confess that I now am a firm believer and many of the other boys who witnessed this event have also been converted to the faith. Nevertheless, I do not propose to become a hypnotists' subject in order to become a staunch believer of the art.
