Conference News

BAPTIST

The Baptist Student Conference was held in Greensboro, N. C., October 23-25. There were approximately 300 delegates representing seventeen different colleges. The delegates from Brevard College were Miss Sizemore, William Hackney, and Geraldine DeVier.

The theme of the conference was "The Will of God." Under this heading, addresses were given by well-known speakers from all over the United States.

On Saturday night an International Banquet was given in the Masonic Temple. The program consisted of music, an address, and a representation of many different races. Immediately after the banquet, a pagant, "The Frustrations of Luther Rice," was given by the representatives from Campbell College.

At the final service the president for next year was formally introduced. He is Woodrow Hill from Boiling Springs College. Other officers were also announced.

Debaters' Club

The Debaters' Club had an unusually interesting program October 22. After the usual preliminaries, a team was picked to give an extemporaneous debate on "Resolved: That it is better to be married in a church than in a court house." Misses Quinn and McConnell, and Messers. Feezor and Pope acted on the team. While they were making preparations for the debate impromptu speeches were made from the floor. The very heated debate was followed by criticism from the students.

Boys' Glee Club

The Boys' Glee Club will sponsor a program in chapel soon. They will sing the choruses of two well-known songs. The glee club this year is very small, but it has been doing excellent work. It practices every day at fourth period. We have some voices in the glee club which offer very good possibilities for outstanding roles in an oper-

Home-Coming

Throng of Alumni Expected for Occasion

This afternoon the campus will be astir with returning alumni as they begin to gather here for the extensive home-coming program that is planned for the week-end.

The fun will begin tonight at eight o'clock, when all the literary societies round up all their members and returned alumni in the college auditorium or library to celebrate the glories of the societies in the form of a semi-formal party.

All will "hit the hay" rather early tonight in order to be in the proper mood for the full program that will get under tomorrow morning with the serving of a seven o'clock breakfast, and which ends with a "spooks" costume party tomorrow night.

Tomorrow morning there will be public assembly in the auditorium for both students and alumni. Eddie Carlisle, president of the student body, will preside

Student Conference

Of interest not only to Methodist students but to all students will be the N. C. State Conference for Methodist students that will meet in Trinity Church, Durham, N. C., November 6-8. Representatives from N. C. Colleges are expected in large numbers.

Dr. Waytt Smart of Emory University, Ga., will be the principal speaker. "Christian Action on the Campus" is the conference theme. The Discussion Groups will be led mainly by Duke professors, also other outstanding Methodist leaders. The topics will include: Drinking on the Campus, Men and Women Relations, Campus Prejudices, and the Counselor on the Campus.

Registration with the Methodist representative on each campus should be made early. James O. Rogers, Vice-President of the Conference, will head up the delegation from Brevard College. Mr. Bennett and Miss Poovey will be the faculty members making the trip.

etta, which the Music Department is planning to put on.

over the meeting. Mr. Coltrane is expected to deliver a short welcome speech, should his health permit. This meeting will be in the form of an open forum, and all the "grads" will get another taste of public speech.

Lunch will be served in all the college dining halls at twelve noon. At two o'clock the crack Brevard Tornado football men will meet Belmont Abbey, in the banner home-game of the season, at the High School athletic field. Tickets will be on sale about one hour before the game begins; students will be admitted on showing their activities ticket.

At six-thirty tomorrow afternoon there will be a barbecue supper on the campus near Ross Hall. At eight in the evening the group will meet the spooks for an old-fashioned Hallowe'en party.

Bummer's Nightmare

By "Monk" Landreth

Take heed, my friends, and follow an experienced hitch-hiker's advice. Never attempt to "travel by air" on Sunday. Your disillusioned reporter has tried and failed. Listen, my children, and you shall hear of the midnight (also all day) ride of a couple of modern Paul Reveres.

Your roving reporters, Sturgis May and I, bade goodbye to Charlotte last Sunday morning at ten o'clock. After an extended period of thumb-shaking we persuaded a hospitable gentleman to give us a lift to Gastonia, a distance of twenty miles. We supported a corner there for an hour and a half, when another kindhearted soul succumbed to our persuasive glances and transported us to Bessemer City, a distance of nine miles. We then parked on the highway and induced a motorist (in a Model-T) to take us to Kings Mountain. We then haunted the bumming corner for an hour and a half before an old gentleman with a dog picked us

"Clarion" Attains Honor

At the last meeting of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association which met in Charlotte October 22-24, the CLARION staff became a member of that group by unanimous vote of the assembled seventy-five members.

In becoming a member of the Association, the CLARION staff became the first junior college newspaper publishers to join this outstanding newspaper organization.

While in session the president of that association and a committee examined various issues of our paper before it could become eligible for membership. In the final business meeting, a representative from Flora Macdonald College made the motion that we be accepted as members; the representation from Appalachian State Teachers' College made the second to the motion, and the vote was unanimous.

Roosevelt Wins

Mr. Roosevelt, according to the mock election sponsored by the CLARION last Wednesday, is the favorite of the student body for the presidency of the United States to serve from 1936 to 1940.

Of the 319 votes cast, Mr. Roosevelt received 206; Mr. Landon was second choice of the group and first choice 100 students. Mr. Lemke, Labor Party candidate, received 2 votes; and Mr. Thomas, Socialist candidate, placed third with 11 votes.

up. We other dogs jumped in the car and sped away to a wide spot in the road, at which, he informed us, he lived.

After numerous rides we arrived in Rutherfordton and stood on a corner from seven o'clock until nine. We stayed there so long that the inhabitants of the town thought we were new statues and started to place a wreath on us.

Finally we decided it was a hopeless cause and caught the bus from there to Hendersonville. After much persuasion we induced a man to transport us to dear old Brevard, arriving here at twelve-thirty Monday morning. I ask you, "Did the globe-circling reporters have anything on us?"
