

LIFE WITH THE MARRIED VETS

(No. 2 In A Series)

The ranks of happily married people received one of its greatest boosts last August when Ernest and Betty Traynham were married in Charlotte. They met on the campus here in February of 1946. "Bull," the nickname he has carried since childhood, had just returned from three years naval service.

Since they moved here in September the Traynham household has resembled a continuous open house. Ham sandwiches and coffee are a regular part of the menu, and everyone who visits might well be prepared to eat. "We just like to see people eat," says Betty. "Eat and then eat some more," adds "Bull," who has himself added fifteen pounds since football season.

The Traynham's have decided to make their home in Greenville, S. C., as soon as "Bull" finishes a Physical Education course at the University of Tennessee. "I'll be going over there next September and stay two years. Then Betty and I are going down to Greenville where I hope to join the staff of a high school." For three years in high school "Bull" was an outstanding athlete. Since he has been here, he has been captain of the football team one year and has continued in his excellent ability as an athlete and a leader.

"What do you do all day," I asked. "Well, I usually find something that needs fixing, and after classes I spend a couple of hours fooling around with it. After that it's workouts in the gym and a part time job up-town."

What does Betty do all this time? Well, she's a secretary down at Ecusta in the Department of Chemical Research. "All those crazy formulas and long words sure do play havoc with a person's shorthand."

In writing about the Traynham's, it is only fair to say something about their star boarder. ... "Dutch Agnew. He moved over for a couple of weeks before he leaves for Tennessee. He and "Bull" and Betty spend a good part of every night now talking about Tennessee and Brevard.

TO BLOW OR NOT TO BLOW?

"Don't blow your nose like a bugle," is the advice of many health authorities to common-cold sufferers. "Sniffing is better," they add, pointing out that blasting away often forces infection into sinuses and Eustachian tubes.

"Best defense against colds is attack," they emphasize, citing such measures as "healthful diet, exercise, adequate rest, fresh air, minimum of worry, and wearing rubbers, overshoes and warm clothing, according to the weather."

What's Your Opinion?

The Question: What's the matter with the boys on the campus?

Eddy Gott: I don't think there's anything the matter with them—one anyway.

Jo Ann Musgrove: They're just too bashful. Then too, they'd rather spend money for pool games than dance tickets.

Christine Hamrick: They're all right except they're so conceited. And they could give the girls credit for the sense they do have.

Byrd Ledbetter: Some of them need to relax and get more enjoyment out of living.

Nancy Ingram: Why do the boys who don't have dates leave the gym parties saying they didn't have a good time when there are plenty of stag girls?

Mildred Fink: The biggest part of them are conceited, and the ones who aren't are too bashful to speak. The girls would think much more of them if they would use better manners and stop using profanity.

P. R. Casteen: Nice sometimes, but hard to get along with. Couldn't do without 'em.

Betty Lawrence: They're too conceited. They think the girls should ask them for dates. If they do have a date with you they don't mind standing you up if they have something else to do or somewhere else to go.

Aletha Cagle: Too shy, too backward, or too something.

Connie Sholar: They take too much for granted and don't have any respect for the girls.

Betsy Bryson: They're too darn independent.

Brake: They're wonderful—especially one!

Jane Setser: Fickle!

Carolyn Pennington: They're cute, but they think so too. They gripe because all the girls aren't raving beauties when they're not prize themselves.

Lois Oyer: They don't date the girls enough.

Glenna Higgins: I just don't know!

"Cat" Adams: Can't figure 'em

Vet's Quiz On Hospitalization

Q. Which veterans are entitled to hospitalization in a VA hospital?

A. Those with service-connected disabilities have top priority. Treatment may be given to non-service cases if the veteran cannot afford treatment elsewhere and a bed is available.

Q. How does a veteran apply for treatment in a VA hospital?

A. Application should be made, either in person or by letter, to the nearest VA office. In an emergency, a relative or friend may telephone a VA hospital or office and reverse the charges.

Q. Will VA pay for hospitalization in a private hospital?

A. It will if the request has preadmission approval of VA and the treatment is for a service-connected disability.

Q. Are dependents of veterans disabled in service entitled to free hospital treatment?

A. No. Under existing laws, only veterans are eligible for VA hospital care.

Q. Does the veteran have a choice of hospitals once treatment is approved?

A. Usually the patient is assigned to the VA hospital nearest his home. But he may be moved to a special center in another section of the country if his disability warrants.

out. They're just too fickle.

Betty Gray Billings: Why don't the boys act natural around the girls instead of "handing" them a line a mile long?

"Pat" Lackey: That's a good question.

Inez Elledge: The biggest thing of course is that they're too wolfish. Most of them try to be too smart, and some of them are too sarcastic.

"Duke": Not one earthly thing!

Ramona Bagwell: They certainly do lack manners, especially in the dining hall.
