

Tornadoes Off To A Good Start

Rambling With The Sports Editor

By ED MOORE

ADVICE TO EXPECTING FATHERS . . . Most expectant fathers pace the hospital delivery ward while waiting for the new arrival. "Get your mind on other things," say "Stinky" Martin and Heyward Buchanan. While these boys were in Asheville at the football game, their wives babies were born. "Stinky" has a son and Heyward, a daughter. Each weighed eight pounds. Have a cigar?

ANGEL ON TEAM . . . Big white wings substituted Lanue Floyd's arms for a moment in the Asheville-Biltmore game. Making a record flying leap, he gave his all to gain a first down which would have been goal to go for the Tornadoes. The officials, after bringing the ball back across his long body to his knees, gave the ball to Asheville-Biltmore. Nice try, Floyd!

NOTHING LEFT UNSAID . . . The wives of the football boys introduced many new yells at the Asheville-Biltmore game last Friday night; "Kill 'em Beef"—"Pull his leg off"—"Hit him, Bull"—and "If you don't get him, wait until I get you home." These and many others added to the spirit Brevard students showed in a losing game.

TWO BUSLOADS MAKE TRIP . . . Mrs. Pylant kindly let all the girls have permission to go to the game in Asheville. A fine pep rally was carried out on the buses and everyone was warmed up by game time.

Band, Majorettes To Perform At Games

Under the direction of Mr. Artley, head of the Brevard college music department, a new drill band will make its appearance between halves of the remaining home football games.

Composed of twenty-eight pieces, the band will be accompanied by three high-stepping majorettes, Pauline Mallard, Billie Rhodes, and Elaine Orr, and one drum major, Jim Wofford.

Most of the band members are new students who have had experience in marching bands in high school. The first of its kind ever to be organized at Brevard, we know there will be a large crowd on hand at the high school field October 9 when the Tornadoes meet Blue Ridge school and the band makes its first appearance.

Cheerleaders For College Elected

Ten students have been elected to serve as cheerleaders for the 1948 football season. Those selected are as follows: Betty Millard, Maxine Renshaw, Frank Roberts, "Kat" Adams, Jack Prince, Bill "Bad Eye" Taylor, Eleanor Orr, Bruce Melvin, Pauline Mallard, and Pat Mason.

With this fine group of boys and girls, we should have a cheering section of which any college would be proud. The team was asked what they thought about student spirit in the WCTC game. Most players said it was all right but that there was room for improvement. Several boys said they didn't notice the cheering, which means we could do a lot better. There is plenty of noise made when the team is on the move but they are too busy to notice or need it then. In the game against Asheville-Biltmore we let out only two yells when they were needed, and, believe it or not, many of those players turned around to see what all the cheering was about. This group of boys which we call our team

Miami.

"Bam Bam" is also the possessor of a wonderful baritone voice, so if you don't like sports you can still be a "Bam Bam" fan. He is going to display his voice to the students this year by singing with the dance band.

Split First Two Games, To Play At PJC Saturday

Brevard College's 1948 football season opened with a bang here on the night of September 18 when the Tornadoes defeated a hard-charging WCTC "B" team, 13-7.

Coach Alexander's boys, showing promise of being one of the strongest junior college elevens this year, drove to the WCTC four yard line early in the first quarter but couldn't muster enough power to score. However, just before the half, the Tornadoes were not to be denied, and "Bam Bam" Martin, running on a reserve, broke over tackle and rambled 25 yards for the first score. Hipps booted the extra point and the Tornadoes held a 7-0 lead at halftime.

In the third period Brevard chalked up another marker when Sorrells covered a blocked WCTC punt in the end zone. Cullowhee came back in the last quarter with a strong passing attack. Cagle hit Green with an aerial on the Brevard 45 and Green outran the secondary for the visitor's only touchdown. The game ended a few minutes later with the Tornadoes taking home a well-deserved victory.

LOSE TO A-B

Last Friday night the Tornadoes traveled over to Asheville and encountered the strong Asheville-Biltmore Bulldogs at Memorial stadium.

Biltmore scored early in the game on a pass-lateral play from Mitchell to Maulk to White. Brevard played a defensive game most of the night and only once were inside the A-B 15. The Bulldogs went over again in the third period on a quarterback sneak.

"Bull" Traynham led the Tornado line and Hershey Hipps stood out in the backfield, completing six of eleven passes.

AT LAURINBURG

Tomorrow night our boys travel down to Laurinburg where they will take on Presbyterian Junior college. Said to have a fine squad this year, the Maxton lads are apt to find the going a little rough against the Tornadoes. PJC is rated a one touchdown favorite but they may find themselves one touchdown behind when the final whistle blows.

needs and expects 100% student support at every game to win their share of football glory for Brevard college.
