Swink Extends

visitors will take an active part in all of the homecoming activities and that their interest in the school will be revived. "Brevard college is very dependent on its alumni association, as it is a constant representative of the institution and the best press agents the college could have," Swink stated. He also hoped that "their interest in the school will be increased and that they will go away feeling that Brevard is a good college."
