

Students Vying For Positions On Team

The basketball season is under way! Each weekday afternoon about twenty-five hopefuls turn out for a hard session of practice, which usually includes a long scrimmage. Although no official word has been received, the first string in some of the current practice sessions has consisted of Hoyle, Malcolm, Eller, Stamey, and Bridges. These boys seem to work well together, but there is a strong second string composed of McIntosh, King, Phipps, Walton, and Brooks. Those second stringers aren't duck-meat for anybody, and it is quite probable that these two line-ups will be changed around somewhat by the time you read this.

After this first group comes the third and fourth strings, from which many of the first ten players came. This means that some of them are excellent material and will be heard from before too long.

Another interesting point to notice about our team is that of the first two strings, only three are sophomores. During the past two years, only twelve to fifteen men turned out for basketball, thus making it hard for the coach to even have a good scrimmage, much less put a good team on the hardwood. With a new spirit, a new group of players, and a new coach, Brevard's basketball future is taking on a countenance of cheerful confidence, confidence that this will be one of our most successful years on the court for the past three or four seasons.

Any One Can Make A Mistake Or Can't We Ever Pick A Winner?

Everybody now realizes the mistake he made in not picking the right number of people who would vote in the election, and half of us realize why we picked the wrong candidate. First, we must take into consideration the fact that the Delphians beat the Clios for the intramural football championship even though some students thought the Delphians were soundly outplayed. Second, Georgia Tech beat Duke by a much larger margin than anyone thought possible, even though they used dirty politics and caused "Country" Meadows to get thrown out of the game. If this does not entirely clear up the situation in your mind, consider this third fact: Washington's Redskins lost to the Pittsburgh Steelers by 24-23 after being behind by 24-7.

Dance Is Planned To Honor Sadie Hawkins

Nancy Carson, president of the Euterpeans, announced today that the Euterpean society would sponsor the Sadie Hawkins day dance again this year. This dance has been an annual feature of the fall social calendar and by tradition has always been sponsored by the Euterpeans.

November 22 has been set as the day in which poor Miss Hawkins, who had to chase her man (a practice which has since then become obsolete), will be honored. The Euterpean society will chose from among the students people to represent such famous characters as Dasiy Mae, Little Abner, Pappy and Mammy Yokum, Moonbeam McSwine, Adorable Jones, wolf-gal and pig gal.

The dance will be held in the cafeteria starting at 7:30. As per usual the girls will ask the boys and present them with vegetable

W. A. A. Announces Break In Schedule

Girls' intramural basketball games have been discontinued because varsity basketball practice starts Thursday, November 6. In the games played up to this time, the freshmen have beaten the sophomores, the town students have beaten the sophomores and the freshmen beat the town students on Tuesday night, November 4, by a score of 58-35. Therefore, the freshmen are the tentative champions and receive 10 points toward the intramural trophy.

Miss Moseley and the president of the W. A. A., along with the managers of the freshmen, sophomores and town students decided that it would be too hard on the girls to play in intramurals and on the varsity. Since there is a break in the intramural schedule in February and March intramural basketball will be continued then.

In the final game, high scorer for the freshmen was Lillian Carney with 27 points, closely followed by Jenny Morris with 19. High scorer for the town students was Doris Ferguson with 19 points. There was some good guarding on both teams. Versatility was shown by many of the girls on the court as they switched places and played well in both positions. Doris Ferguson, captain of the day students, said "I think the game should be played over, because the score was not a majority."

The freshmen now have 20 points toward the trophy since they won the touch football championship.

New Addition Made On College Campus

A new member has been added to the Brevard college family. No I. Q. or placement tests have been given nor has he been officially enrolled; for the time being he is content to breathe the air that surrounds any institution of higher learning and now and then deliver a few deep, resounding remarks on any subject under discussion.

This new and extremely interesting and versatile member is Tiffen, Coach Fitzpatrick's cocker spaniel. He is an extremely likeable little fellow with a long bushy tail, big brown eyes and taffy colored hair. Tiffen makes his abode in Mr. White's lot beside the boys' barracks. He has proved to be an excellent mimic, since he spends his time trying to find some mischief to get into and some studying to get out of—like most of his fellow students.

Coach Fitzpatrick can be seen almost every morning of the week out at the lot by 7:00 feeding Tiffen and walking with him. It looks as though Tiffen has taken on the responsibility of keeping the coach in shape.

When Tiffen was approached with a question that has been bothering most male students these days, he thought a minute and then gruffly said, Yes, he thought he's to be deferred for another year, at least.
