

MORRIS HOYLE FORTUNE WILLIAMS

WHO'S WHO

On this campus "misfortune" has a very pleasant connotation in the form of Frances Fortune. Although she is a political science major, her social life isn't as deep as her scholastic trends. Frances, one of the two returning members of the Mnemosynean society, came bearing the two-cent treasury this fall as secretary and treasurer of this organization. She serves as business manager of the Clarion and is a member of the student council, representing the Day Student's club.

Frances is athletically inclined, too. She plays outstanding games of ping-pong, tennis and softball; and she participates actively in other intramural activities. She sings in the glee club and recently was elected president of the dramatics club. In her spare time, Frances likes to read; in fact, she has been talking about forming a book club.

Jennie Lou Morris hails from Casar, near Fallston, N. C. It is in North Carolina, so she says. This country girl came to Brevard college highly recommended for her achievements in the world of sports. However, she rarely ever expresses her own feelings on the subject until the word basketball is uttered. Then her eyes begin to shine and that unmistakable athletic bounce springs into her stride. Last season she was the co-captain on the girls' basketball team and, although her forte is at the guard position, she starred on both ends of the court.

Jennie participates in numerous other campus activities. She is secretary and treasurer of the student council organization, a member of the Euterpean society and president of the Women's Athletic association.

Nicholas Williams, fondly known to his friends as Nick, drifted in last year from lower Gaston county only to discover that Brevard didn't offer football, his favorite sport. However, this didn't stop Nick, for he couldn't play worth a cuss anyway. He just joined the Delphian society and helped that club's team walk off with all the honors, including first place.

Later in the year Nick put up a very strong fight for president of the student body, much to everyone's surprise. From that time on his social standing rose, even to manager of the baseball team. He is now art editor of the Clarion, president of the Delphians, and a student council member representing the boy's dormitory. Nick plans to continue his education in textile engineering either at State or Clemson college.

Kenneth Hoyle is a very devoted native of Lincolnton, the metropolis of the south in his vocabulary. This summer he worked in an ice cream plant, and it has been rumored that from some of his rather unusual experiences he plans to publish an article, "The Big Splash."

Last year Ken joined his Lincolnton friends in the Clio-sophic society and has remained a very faithful member. He had the honor of escorting our lovely queen, Annie Lou Allison, in the May Day festivities last spring.

Ken is not a social bug, but he can be contacted most anytime at the ping-pong table in the "wreck" hall. He is a religious education major so his extra-curricular activities include the Christian Fellowship club and the Ministerial association. He was recently elected president of the latter.

Brevard Circuit Is Filled By McGlamery

The newest addition to the staff of Brevard college is the Rev. Neal McGlamery, who will divide his time equally between the new Brevard circuit and his college work.

Mr. McGlamery comes from Stanfield where he has been serving the Stanfield charge. He is a graduate of the Duke Divinity school and did under-graduate work at Berry college in Georgia. He received his master of divinity degree from Duke.

The Brevard home of Mr. McGlamery is Ross Hall. He and his wife are living there with their two children: Van, age 11, and Gloria, age 15 months

Work, Cooperation Keynotes For Netters

It's much too early for any hint or prediction as to how we'll make out this season. Practice opens October 12 for three days of conditioning. After Homecoming festivities are over, practice will settle down to the usual two-hour session daily.

Many of our lettermen are not returning and this loss will be noticeable. On hand for the opening whistle will be the following lettermen: Brooks, Phipps, Trivette, Malcolm and Bridges. As none of the freshmen have been on the court, it is difficult to say just what material will be available.

Don Justice, Osborne, Nesbitt, Cassidy, White, Starnes, Reggie Smith and Willis are reported to be coming out for practice. One thing is certain, all positions are open!

With hard work and cooperation, the Tornados can win some games this year.

At this time our first home game appears to be November 21 with Beacon Mills.

Pisgah Candy Co.

Wholesale Distributors

PARSONS'

Jewelry and Gifts

KEARNS

Your Campus Grocer
Open Sundays and Evenings

Meet Your Friends

at

Varner's Drug Store

AYER'S STORE

"The House with the Merchandise"

College Students!
For Your Cold Drinks,
Hot Dogs and Hamburgers

Visit The

Chicken Kitchen

"Just Below the College"

Charlie Owenby, Owner

Tel. 2-8231

Baker's Jewelry

Watch Repairing
Diamonds and Gifts

SCHULMAN'S

Ladies' and Children's Ready-to-Wear

BEST QUALITY FOOD

HOME OF COUNTRY HAM

And Western Steaks

Tasty Sandwiches

Complete Dinners

GALLOWAY'S CAFE

PETE BIKAS

Owner and Manager

Jones' News Stand

Headquarters for Needs

For the latest and best in movie entertainment — visit the

Co-Ed & Clemson Theaters