

Brevard Cops Junior Classic Tournament

Shining brightly as a candle in a dark room, Brevard's Tornados slaughtered top-seeded Asheville-Biltmore 87-72, then eked out a 60-57 win over tough Lees-McRae to take top honors in the Junior College Classic Tournament November 27-28. Coach Martin's cagemen showed nothing but utter disregard for A-B's paper power, which Martin proved by clearing his bench in an effort to hold the score down.

For the Tornados in the first game, Tom Barbee clipped the chords for 28 points. Alton Jones was second with 18, while Glover Coggins pulled down 10 rebounds. Teamwise, Brevard was 75 per cent accurate from the foul line and 45 per cent from the floor, good in any man's league.

The second game with Lees-McRae, who had mauled Mars Hill 92-70 in their opener, was not so easy, however. It was a nip-and-tuck dog fight to the end, the lead changing hands almost as often as the ball did. With four minutes to go, the Purples were on the short end of a 56-53 score. Then, with the clock showing 35 seconds left, and Brevard still trailing 57-56, Eller sank two free throws to put the Tornados ahead with enough points to win. Two more points were needlessly added and Brevard had won the tournament.

Captain Charlie Hensley bucketed 12 of the Tornados' first 15 points in the championship game, then added four more to lead Brevard in scoring with 16. Barbee was second with 15. Lees-McRae's Arville Cornette was game pacer with 18 points. From the floor, Brevard's percentage was 38, but Lees-McRae racked a fabulous 56 per cent of all field goals attempted.

Runner up for the tourney was scrappy Lees-McRae. Mars Hill was awarded third place when Asheville-Biltmore refused to return to the tournament the second night due to what they felt quite strongly was unfair officiating.

Civic Chorus Will Render Bach's Holiday Oratorio

By PHIL TAPPY

We may all look forward to a musical treat Sunday, December 13, when college students and town's people combine in the Civic Chorus to render their presentation of Bach's Christmas Oratorio. The Oratorio as originally written was to have been presented on six consecutive Sundays in regular church services; however, the chorus plans to give the first three sections, dealing with the main portions of the Christmas Story, in one program.

Mr. Thomas M. Cousins, will direct the chorus with Mr. Nelson Adams accompanying at the organ.

Solos will be presented by John Howren and Lloyd Burhans, tenors; Betty Ann Killian and Gloria Sanders, sopranos; Sam Cannon bass; and Ruth Hunter, alto.

Though the Civic Chorus was originated in 1952, it has actually only been organized for about three years. The Chorus, composed of 30 members, plans to present a program for Palm Sunday followed by a joint presentation with the Brevard Little Theater later in the Spring.
