Kappa Chi Sends Needed Medicine

The Kappa Chi, in response to the urgent request from Rev. Dr. Jorge Leon of Cuba, sent $9.00 worth of medicine. Dr. Leon, who refused to renounce his church and join the Communist party, has been refused the right to buy supplies in Cuba. The medicine will reach Cuba in approximately three months.

At a business meeting on December 7, Kappa Chi voted to contribute $15 to the Casa Materna Orphans' home in Italy. David Cort was elected reporter to the Clarion.

Members of Kappa Chi went Christmas caroling on Sunday, December 9. Afterwards, they visited Mrs. Roy's home and were served Pizzas and Russian tea for refreshments.

Christmas Season '62 History-Maker At B.C.

President Emmett McLarty officially opened the Christmas season at Brevard College by the annual lighting of the Christmas tree on December 7.

President McLarty read the Christmas story, Freddie McMahan led the group in prayer, and the Madrigals sang Christmas carols.

Some 150 students turned out despite the cold weather to attend the traditional ceremony.

Whitley Reigns At Dance

Saturday, December 8, was the date of the campus-wide Christmas Dance presented by the Euterpean and Clisophic Societies. The setting for the dance was the Campus Center Building, which was gaily decorated by the combined efforts of the two societies, and which displayed an atmosphere of blue to coincide with the theme "Blue Christmas."

Music was provided by the Clemson Bluenotes with Vincent Dennen acting as Master of Ceremonies for the evening's entertainment.

Mr. Kenerly, manager of the college bookstore reminds the students that the college is now served for mail pick-up twice a day. Students are asked to use the outside mail box at all times. SANTA AND HIS COURT! Pictured above is the 1962 Christmas Queen, Lynn Whitley (center) and her court. Miss Whitley, from Murphy, N. C., was crowned at the annual Christmas Dance on December 8. Harriet Carey (top left) from Greenville, S. C., and Susan Maxwell

Classes To Start Again On Jan. 3

Brevard College will be vacated today by 2:00 P. M. as students, faculty, and administration leave for their homes for the annual Christmas vacation.

The holidays will be observed from December 14, until January 3. Transportation will be provided from the Asheville bus station, railroad station, and airport on January 2. A charge of $1.50 will be made for the availability of these facilities.

Classes are due to resume Thursday morning, January 3, 1963, at 8:00 A. M.

CREATIVE WRITING WILL BE OFFERED

During the Spring semester English 16 (Creative Writing) will be offered for 1 semester hour credit. Last year eleven students completed the course, and their work was represented in a small paperbound book entitled CONFETTI I.

Membership in the class will be limited to twelve students. Prerequisites for the course will be (1) a grade of at least B in English 11 and (2) consent of the instructor. Students wishing to enroll for the course should contact Mr. Miles (108 Dunham) as soon as possible, and consent to enroll for the class will be given shortly after the Christmas recess.

"Crime And Punishment" To Be Topic

A group of students interested in discussing vital life issues with the influence of an initiator, Dean Roberts, have met on two occasions to expound their views. On the first evening, the eternal question of religion was exploited. Mr. Miles, who is the holder of a S.T.B. degree and is doing graduate study at Boston University, expounded his views and tenets in answer to the prodding of the group.

At the second meeting, records of Robert Frost's famed "Death of the Hired Man," "Birches," and "The Tuft of Flowers," were presented, and followed by a lively discussion on the life, significance, and beauty of Frost and his works.

Mrs. Holder, the librarian, and Mr. Lance, psychology professor have attended the sessions. Tosh Hamerschlag, Betty Cairn.
