NUMBER 11

GLEE CLUB TO MAKE SPRING TOUR

Miss Moser To Visit UNC, Duke

Miss Joan Moser will attend the Music Teacher's National Association Convention on the campus of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro from April 9 through April 12. She will, when there, present a concert-lecture with her father, Artus M. Moser, who is a collector of folk music for the folklore division of the Library of Congress. The lecture will be on "Traditional Ballads and Instrumental Music of the Southern Appalachians." Miss Moser will also present an exhibit of folk instruments.

From April 23 through 25, Miss Moser will travel to the Duke University Campus for a joint meeting of The American Folklore Society, The North Carolina Folklore Society, The Duke University Press, and the Duke Graduate English Club. The meeting is for the purpose of celebrating the publication of the final volume of the Frank Brown Collection of North Carolina Folklore. Miss Moser will present a paper entitled "Survey of the Instrumental Music of the Southern Appalachians."

Girls Top Boys On Honor Lists

Girls outnumbered boys 19 to 13 in the academic honors at mid-semester, which seems to disprove the belief that all men are more intelligent than women.

Eleven students attained a 2.5 average on all academic work attempted for this half semester.

Twenty-one students averaged a 2.0 or better for the Honor Roll.

Those having a 2.5 average, making them eligible for the Dean's List are the following:

Donna Blankinship, Brevard;

lem; Margaret Davidson, Marion, South Carolina; Deedra Dickinson, Winter Park, Florida; Linda Edwards, Aberdeen.

Towles And Jones Exhibit

Two of Brevard's art students, Margo Towles and Richard Jones, had paintings accepted for exhibit in the Carolina's Sixth College Art Annual at Columbia Museum, Columbia, South Carolina.

Three paintings were accepted out of the ten entered by Brevard's sophomore art majors. Two were painted by Richard, entitled Color Composition 1 and Experiment 1. Margo's painting on exhibit is entitled William. All three paintings are done in oils.

In comparison with other colleges, Brevard with its 5 sophomore art majors, is very well represented at the Annual. There are 48 works in the exhibit. The University of North Carolina had 19 works accepted and the University of South Carolina was second with 11. Clemson, with 8 on exhibit, tied with U.N.C. for Honor Awards — each receiving two $25.00 awards.

Other colleges represented in the Annual include Western Carolina, Furman, Columbia, Benedict, and Atlantic Christian.

The exhibit is now open to the public and will run through April 22.

The works entered were judged by a one-man jury, Mr. Gudmund Vigtel, who is Head of the Museum of the Atlanta Art Association, Atlanta, Georgia.
