Students To See Dylan Thomas Play

"Under Milk Wood", Dylan Thomas' humorous account of a spring day in a small Welsh town, will be performed by the Kaleidoscope Players, national touring company at Brevard College. It is presented under the auspices of the Lyceum Program Series and will be presented February 7 at 8:00 p.m. in the Dunham Music Center Auditorium.

"Under Milk Wood" was the masterpiece of lyric drama finished by Thomas just before his death in 1953. The play started as a broadcast talk over the British Broadcasting Company. After a series of tryouts and revisions, Thomas completed the play, presenting it at the Edinburgh Festival and then in New York, as a reading, with a cast of six assuming over sixty roles. It was an instantaneous success and has been performed since in a variety of manners, from solo readings to a cast of over thirty; it has also been recorded twice.

The characters are situated in a small Welsh town near the sea. The play is limited to the town itself, with hardly a suggestion of the outside world. One of the main characters of the play is Captain Cat, a blind man. In the radio play the blind captain was a natural bridge between the eye and the ear of the radio listener. He still holds a central position, however, in the visual play, along with two anonymous narrators.

The Kaleidoscope players have been touring many sections of the country for the past five years and now enlarge their horizons to include the fifty states. Established by producer-actor Bill Fegan as a small theatrical company that would tour the unusual in drama and that would be available to colleges and universities regardless of size, the Players began touring weekends and summers in several southeastern and midwestern states. Since established they have earned an enviable reputation for superior performances, particularly in the area of the interpretation of the literature they were presenting.

The current cast now includes New York actress Lee Speich, who is now in her third year as leading actress with the Players. She has been in numerous off-Broadway shows, and she has been a popular actress in New England, Michigan, and Minnesota.

Ben Zellar is the leading actor as well as the new director of the group. He has designed settings for several off-Broadway theatres and appeared in over thirty performances with the Wayne University Theatre and with the National Players in Washington. Mr. Zellar is a poet, as well, and has given readings of his own poetry as well as that of other poets.

Marjorie Marson, a newcomer to the group, has appeared in countless musical comedy roles and in night clubs in New England and New York.

England Swings

The Delphians and the Mne-mosyneans will sponsor a Sweetheart Dance this Saturday, February 5, from 9:00 to 12:30.

The dance will be held after the basketball game at which time the court will be presented. Everyone is asked to remain in his seat at halftime. At this time, the Sweetheart will be crowned by Dave Morrow, and Mrs. Walker will present her with one dozen white carnations.

The theme for the dance is "Liverpool." After passing through an entrance draped with curtains, couples will find themselves in a mystic world, lighted only by the flames of the melting candles in the bottles on the tables. For effect, the ceiling of Dunham Auditorium will be lowered and the walls will be papered with newspaper. Coats of arms and abstract paintings will be painted and fixed on to the newspaper to add to the unconventional atmosphere. Large and small tables, covered with different colored striped table cloths, will be scattered throughout the room. Melted and warped records will serve as ash trays.

A nine piece band, The Ambassadors, will be playing throughout the evening. Dress is informal or date dress. Everyone is invited to attend. So if you want to have a really good time, grab yourself a sweetheart and celebrate Valentine's Day the European way.

Peacock Leads Frosh

Jack Peacock was elected President of the Freshman Class Tuesday, February 1. John King was selected to fill the Vice-president's spot, and Betty Kaye Fox, the position of Social Chairman.

Concerning his election, Jack expressed his appreciation to the Freshman Class and asked for their continued support in carrying out the proposals made in his campaign. He pledged to serve the students' best interests. Other presidential candidates promised to support Jack while in office.

John King expressed his intention to assist the president and work for the good of the class.

Betty Kaye Fox is starting to work out details of her proposals to improve the social life of the school.

Dean Harris Announces Summer Session

Tentative plans for a summer session at Brevard College were announced by Dean Harris on January 20 at a student body meeting.

The new summer school, which has been held at Brevard on previous occasions, will consist of two six-week sessions from June 2 to July 8 and July 18 to August 23. Students can come for one or both of these and will be allowed to carry two courses each session for a total of twelve semester hours. Entrance requirements will be the same as those for entering the college during the regular school year.

Approximately 80 students can be accommodated in the resi-

MSM Leaves Today

The Methodist Student Movement State Conference will be held in Raleigh, N. C., during February 4, 5, and 6. The theme of the conference is "To Take a Stand," which deals with the Christian's stand in relation to theology, social action, and vocations. One of the items of interest will be discussions of the James Bond image.

The MSM of Brevard College will be sending twelve of its members: Irene Johnson, Lou Christley, Jo Ann Aldridge, Mark Price, Ed Neves, Jean Harrison, Judy Sigmon, Jim Reeves, Leslie Johnson, Linda Nichols, Steve Jones, and Doug Tanner.

Give To SGA

The student council plans definite action against those who do not turn in the money or candy entrusted to them, according to Bob Pickens.

Reports show that, even with this candy still out, the sale already has a net profit of approximately 320 dollars, out of an original 1,050 dollar investment.

The money is to go into a student activity fund and be used to sponsor a dance.

The money missing from Don Key's room will be taken as a loss by the student council, since Don cannot be held responsible for the loss, and there is no insurance on the loss. Authorities are still hopeful of recovering the money, however.

One of the major worries of the student council is the students who did not return for spring semester and kept the money. Letters are being sent to these people.

26 Say YES

Mr. Mike Lawler, on January 25, explained the purpose of YES (Youth Educational Services) to interested Brevard College students.

This program is designed for the culturally deprived child and deals with his potential when helped on an individual basis. Only basic skills such as library use, dictionary use, enjoyment of art, music, and drama, and reading and writing are being planned for the tutoring program.

The short history of YES, a statewide institution, was given by Mr. Lawler. It began as an
