best ways to meet them. Classes, discussion groups, lectures and labs will be on the agenda. Professional journalists and outstanding members of the school publication field will be present to conduct individual conferences, group and general meetings, sharing their knowledge with the students and giving advice to the staff members.

Brevard College's annual, the Pertelote, is published by Keys Printing Company. Mr. McDermott has played an important part in the success of the Pertelote, which has won a first place rating for the past three years from the Columbia Press Institute of Columbia University, New York.

The professional advice that Mr. McDermott has contributed to the yearbook staffs at Brevard has been invaluable, and the workshop under his direction should be very profitable for those who attend.

the Czarist system to the takeover by Stalin during WWI. The movement was then traced through the death of Stalin, and the methods each leader used to control the country was portrayed.

Actual films of the Revolution, as well as dramatizations of the events, supplemented the narrative. The black-and-white film was skillfully edited, and well-narrated, but lacked the depth and reality of "The Twisted Cross." The film seemed to aim at convincing the audience that Communism is evil, and the whole picture was left undrawn.

Anderson Tops Brevard Stickmen

On Saturday, April 16, the Brevard College Tornadoes suffered their second conference setback 13-5 at the hands of a strong hitting Anderson team in a game played on the Tornado diamond.

Anderson started things rolling in the first inning with three runs. This continued into the second inning as they picked up three more runs which proved to be the winning margin. The Rebels picked up their 13 runs on 13 hits while the Tornadoes were mustering only 5 runs even though they got 12 hits.

Righthander Bill Newman started for the Tornadoes after having arm trouble earlier this season. However, Newman was still feeling the effects as he worked 1½ innings before giving way to Doug Ponder who worked the final 7½ innings. Ponder pitched fine ball, but it seemed like Anderson's day as the breaks were going their way.

Ponder was the leading hitter for the Tornadoes with 3 hits in 4 trips. Among Ponder's hits was a line-shot homer in the 7th that easily cleared the left-centerfield hedge. Don Cagle continued his outstanding hitting with 2 doubles and a triple in 6 at-bats. Centerfielder Randy Stoneman picked up his fifth homerun of the year in the ninth. Stoneman also got a double and 4 runs batted in. Stan Perry also hit consistently with 2 for 5.

Whitfield was the winning pitcher. Abercrombie led the Rebels with 3 for 5 and Cuttino and Beauford picked up 2 hits apiece to round out the Rebel's hitting attack.

SGA elections will be held next week. Speeches are to be given Tuesday (April 26). Petitions — 10% of the student body — are to be in by Monday at 9:00 a.m. to Bunnie George, John Brookshire or Carol Crouch.

Baseball Outlook Is Good

At this point in the season with only five conference games left for the Tornado baseballers, the next two weeks should tell the story. As it stands now, the Tornadoes are 8 and 6 overall with a 3 and 2 conference record. Despite the fact that they have lost 2 games, the Tornadoes are in second place by percentage points and are a strong contender for the conference title.

Don Cagle is one of the big reasons for the success of the Tornadoes so far this season. Through 14 game Cagle has compiled an average of .423, and leads the team in runs with 15, in hits with 22 and is tied in doubles with Dave Morrow with 4. Randy Stoneman has also played a big part for the Tornadoes. Stoneman leads in homeruns with 5, in runs batted in with 15, and is second in hits. Doug Ponder has also given the opposing pitchers trouble with 12 hits in 28 at bat for a .429 average. Ponder despite the fact that he has only been to bat 28 times, is second in homers with 3. Luke Smith and John Warlick have also been hitting the ball consistently.

Luke Smith has looked sharp on the mound as he has given up only 14 hits in 26 innings while sporting a fine 3-0 record. Ponder has been the workhorse for the Tornadoes as he has pitched 32½ innings and has compiled a 3-1 record. Bob Pickens has also given opposing batters trouble as he has worked the opposition for a 2-1 record.
