

When you are born, you cry while all around you laugh . . .

The Clarion

Live your life so that when you die, you may laugh while all around you cry.

Volume XXXIV

BREVARD COLLEGE, BREVARD, N. C., OCTOBER 28, 1966

Number 5

Lyceum Series Begins With A Storm

Yoon Aided By The SAC

The Save-the-children Federation, Inc., which is the sponsor of Brevard College's Save-a-Child program, helps poverty-stricken children complete their education.

These children come from many areas including the Southern Appalachians, Indian reservations, and Korea. Yung Hwan Yoon, the Korean boy Brevard College students sponsor, is planning to continue his education after he serves some time in the Korean army. The college plans to help him with his college education, also.

Pam Thomas, chairman of the program, said that a fund-raising drive was planned during the spring semester. She asked each club to donate some of their time and money to further the education of this boy, who is quite interested in Brevard College.

Students Pretend

Because of student interest, the Masquers, campus dramatic society, has been re-organized. Two new advisors, Mr. Richard Wilson of the History Department, and Miss Elizabeth Owens of the English Department, held the organizational meeting Tuesday, October 18.

A revised form of the old constitution was adopted, and the president and business manager were elected. The group plans to produce a play this semester, perhaps on December 3.

Jack Peacock and Judy Caldwell, instrumental in reviving the Masquers, were selected as president and business manager, respectively.

Mrs. Pat Fuleihan will direct the first play.

Olin Computer Viewed By The Business Classes

Several students of the business department, accompanied by Mrs. Munro and Mrs. Burhans, attended the "Open House" at Olin Mathieson's Communications Building on October 20.

The purpose of the trip was to acquaint the girls with Olin's newest IBM System/360 computer. Meeting the increased record-keeping requirements and urgent, information demands of the Ecusta Paper and Film Divisions, the new computer can perform approximately half a million mathematical operations in just a few seconds, or in one minute produce 25 diffusely printed pages of information.

The girls, amazed by what they had seen, were reassured when Mrs. Munro said, "A good secretary will always be in demand".

Green, Day Tie For 1st

The recent judging of the Homecoming weekend decorations resulted in a tie between the day student's exhibit of "Snoopy and his Forecast for the Tornados" and Green Hall's theme, "Alumi Page of the Pertelote."

Serving as judges were the following: Head Judge — Dean Braxton Harris, Miss Virginia Tillotson, Miss Elizabeth Owen, Mr. Richard Wilson, and Mr. Timothy Murray.

Other themes used were as follows: Beam Hall — "Homecoming in the Land of Oz," Jones' Hall — "Brevard College has the Best Forest and the Best Socker Team," and

—Turn to Page Two

'THE TEMPEST' — by the American Classical Theater.

The Tempest To Be Given By ACT Actors

One of William Shakespeare's greatest comedies, The Tempest, will be presented at 8:15 in Dunham Auditorium November 4 and 5 by members of The American Classical Theater.

Tickets for this event, specifying which evening a student is to attend, will be placed in the mailboxes on November 3. Because there are no extra tickets and because no student will be admitted to lyceum without a ticket, it is important that everyone check his mailbox on that day.

Students are allowed to exchange tickets with each other if it is inconvenient for them to attend on their assigned night. At the door all tickets will be signed and turned in.

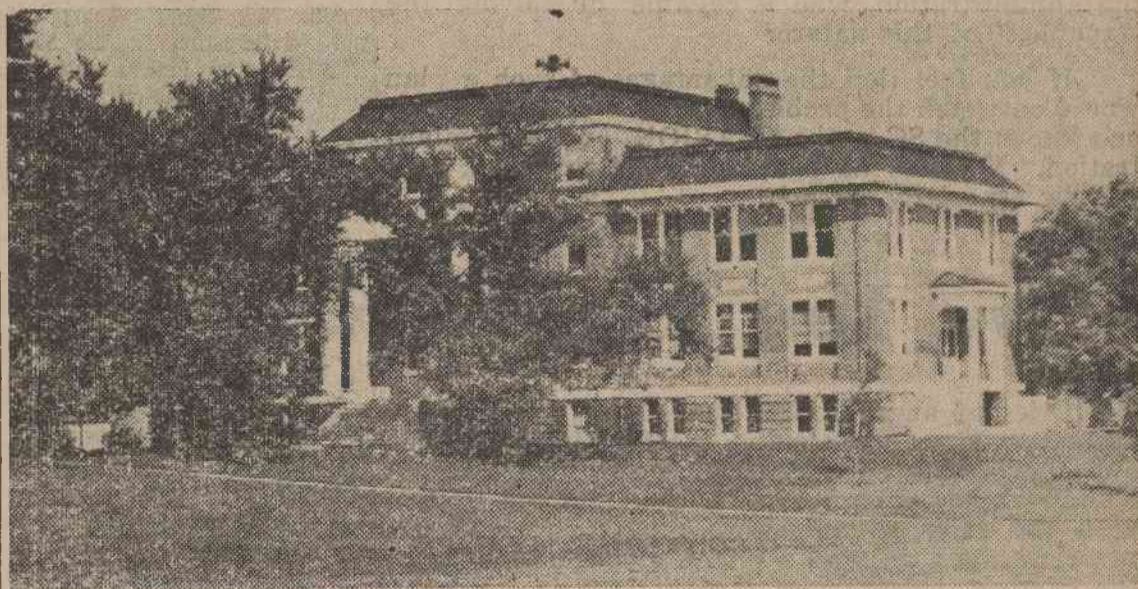

This year's schedule for the remaining lyceum programs is as follows: December 7 and 8, Paul Winter's Jazz Ensemble; January 30 and 31 — Nelson and Neij Piano Duo; April 26 and 27, The Eastman Brass Quintet.

WF Officers Elected

Jeanie Selleck, vice-president, and Jackie Lawing, secretary, were elected October 23 to round out the complement of officers in Westminster Fellowship.

The group held a picnic at Camp Straus later in the afternoon. In spite of the rain, a roaring fire was built to roast hot dogs, marshmallows, and toes. One of the students said, "It's fun to get away from studying awhile. Even if we did take some books, we didn't even open them."

CLASSROOM BUILDING — Oldest On Campus

Oldest, Newest Are BC

The old and the new make up Brevard College history, as they do any other.

On the campus the old and the new is comprised of many things: old students and new, old teachers and new, old traditions and new, old buildings and new. Traditions are formed each year a building is in existence — the more years, the more traditions.

In 1914, during the administration of Mr. C.H. Trowbridge, Spenser Hall was erected at Brevard Institute. This new administration building was named in honor of Mrs. J. C. Spenser of Charlotte, who had contributed most of the money toward it. The chapel in the new building was called the San Angelo Chapel, after the place in Texas which donated the money for its erection.

The Ad building at the old Brevard Institute held all the offices, the library, the bookstore, and the lounge. These different divisions gradually moved out into separate buildings of their own.

CPT (Civilian Pilot Training), a training program for the piloting of light aircraft, held classes in Spenser Hall for the participants who were stationed at Brevard in 1942-43.

During Mr. George Ehlhard's administration, the name was changed to Dunham Hall, the

—Turn to Page Four

BEAM DORMITORY — Newest Building (Photo By Otterness)