Soccer Team Drops Two

Brevard's soccer team went down to defeat in two games of a hard schedule this past weekend.

On Friday, Clemson University Soccer Club was the winner of the match by the score of 4-1. Brevard played a fine first half, with the score being tied 1-1. Mark Price, left halfback, made the lone score for the home team. Clemson scored their final points in the third and fourth quarters, 2 and 1 points respectively.

Both Greg Nelson, center halfback, and Drew Daniels, goalie, played fine games for Brevard, as did all the team members.

On Saturday, Furman defeated Brevard 2-0, scoring in the first and third periods. David Mullis, left wing, and Steve Hall, right fullback, were the outstanding players for Brevard. Remaining games for this year are: Warren - Wilson, there, November 12, Clemson, there, November 19, and Warren-Wilson, here, November 24.

B.C. Idea

increase the number of books on the shelves.

A collection of over 100 magazines also enhances the value of literary research and entertainment. Most of these periodicals are bound, but several of the lighter ones haven't been.

The three librarians and their six student assistants help the individual student find the information he is hunting. These librarians are well trained. Mr. Joseph Dixon, head of the library, earned his degree at Appalachian State Teacher's College and has done graduate work at UNC at Chapel Hill. Mrs. J. J. Stevenson, who has worked in the library at B. C. for the longest period of time, received her BA degree at Wesleyan College. She did graduate work at Peabody and Appalachian. Wake Forest College awarded Mrs. Edwin Williams her degree, and she received her master's in library science at UNC at Chapel Hill.

The two Federal grants that Brevard College has received have increased both the equipment and the selection of books. Under Title VI additional equipment such as a microfilm reader and reference books have been purchased. The $5,000 Title II grant has increased the book circulation (about 369 more books) and the microfilm library. The librarians have ordered the editions of the New York Times which were missing from the stacks (these were copies during the time of the two world wars) to complete their file.

Soon another phase of the history of the Brevard College library will be completed. A new building, to be finished during the spring, will house 60-80,000 books. This structure will be air-conditioned to preserve the books. Also carrels (individual study areas), a seminar room with audio-visual aids, and a faculty lounge will be housed here. The modern decor has been designed to harmonize with the existing buildings on campus.

These librarians feel their job is to help the student, not merely care for books. They agree with Norman Cousins' version of a library. "The library is not a shrine for the the costumed dances presented by the girls on Halloween.

Gilda Codispoli, who is enrolled in this class, says that in addition to the advantages mentioned above, modern dancing helps to bring out the imagination and creativity of the student. Gilda refers to her classes as "modern soul" lessons and sums up her feelings with a big "I love It!" With a laugh she added, "when Mrs. Daye finishes demonstrating, then we get up there and make fools out of ourselves! We really, enjoy our modern dancing classes."

worship of books. It is not a temple where literary incense must be burned or where one's devotion to the bound book is expressed in ritual. A library, to modify the famous metaphor of Socrates, is the delivery room for the birth of ideas—a place where history comes to life."

Not even his girl escapes his straight-faced flights of fancy. She was convinced that John had ordered an orange tuxedo for homecoming. Had this been true, then her green dress would have really looked beautiful.

With a John King, though, you never know.

tor, Joan Holder, is presently a junior at the University of North Carolina. Mrs. Roy, the PERTELOTE advisor, says that the book "represents a great deal of time and effort." And as it has been proved from the judging, it was well worth the effort. Patti Keith, PERTELOTE editor for '67, is anticipating bringing home another victory for the Brevard College year book.
