Mrs. Stokely, Famous Author, To Visit B. C. Campus

Glee Club Ends Odyssey

On Sunday of this week, the Brevard College Glee Club returned from a ten-day tour of choral performances and sight-seeing.

The choir was well-received in the homes and in all the churches in which they sang. The Riverside Church in New York City especially enjoyed the Glee Club.

While in New York, the Glee Club saw many sights of interest: a ride to the Statue of Liberty on the Staten Island Ferry, Rockefeller Center, the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, Radio City, and Greenwich Village. They also attended two Broadway musicals, "Apple Tree" and "Sweet Charity." The day was well-remembered by blisters on the feet of all.

Washington was another city of interest. Here the students visited the Smithsonian Institute, the National Museum of Art, the Lincoln Memorial, and Arlington Cemetery.

The Glee Club and their director, Mr. Harvey Miller, were well-pleased with the trip. Many of their performances took place in the home churches of some of the college students. Although there was some free time, the Glee Club had 14 performances each day.

With such a schedule, the B. C. students had little time for a rest; consequently, none was eager to return to their classes.

TEACHERS really have talent! Mr. McDonald, Mr. Roy, and Mr. McLarty sing; Rhonda Stokes and Mary Lynn Freeman dance with Mrs. Day;

Miss Owen smokes and plays; Mr. Fisher and Mr. Tauscher do a ballet; Willa shows her pups; and Miss Shipman preaches.

Talent Show Earns $97.27 Roy Attends 3-State Meeting

The Brevard College faculty showed their talent and worth on Friday, April 7, by performing acts ranging from ballet to magic and earned $97.25 for the Build-A-School project.

Mr. Tauscher introduced the various talents, leading off with a magic show by Spies, Nicholson and Craig, aided by Agent Bang Bang Fisher. More entertainment was provided by Miss Owen, who did a violin, cigar, and bubble gum routine, and Miss Shipman, who delivered a sermon in the style of the hell-fire and damnation preachers.

The Presidential Polecats, consisting of President McLarty, Mr. McDonald, and Mr. Roy, proved to be a hit with their musical talent, especially the "steal away" scene.

Miss Day, with the aid of two of her students, Rhonda Stokes and Mary Lynn Freeman, provided the audience with a modern dance gone mod. Mr. Fisher and Mr. Tauscher added culture to the evening with a ballet performance. It turned out to be a jumping exhibition by Tauscher and a kilt swirling by Fisher.

Mr. Holcombe made the show realistic with his well-placed and well-stated commercials. The best was the Wishy-washy for the "one-man population explosion." The show was climaxed by Mr. Holcombe and Willa, a new Dalamatian mother, with her 8 little puppies.

The hilarious show was extremely well received. Many of the audience were in tears. Not only did the students enjoy watching the teachers ham it up, they also were drawn closer to their instructors, whose images were changed.

Mr. C. Edward Roy recently attended the two-day campus Minister's Convention in Chapel Hill.

This was a three-state conference and included full-time religious workers with students. The speakers were outstanding in their fields and represented the different areas of Christian influence on students.

These Christian leaders discussed the philosophy and program of the church relating to college students. They discussed ways to "bring the church to the campus" in the face of expanding education.

One of the aspects reviewed was the ecumenical movement, called the University Christian Movement in which the denominational groups are merged into a larger non-denominational one.
