

Wallace Writes From London

September 30, 1967

Yesterday we saw an exhibit of childrens' art-(ages 6 to 15), Today we saw the changing of the guards again at Buckingham. This afternoon we took a boat ride on an old canal. Last night we saw a performance by a Russian Ensemble at Albert Hall. They were so well disciplined — they enjoyed the performance so much themselves. You got a feeling that the audience just stopped by to see it!

We saw the Elgin marbles at the British museum the other day — (If you can't go to Greece — see the Elgin marbles from the Parthenon.)

We heard the Royal Philharmonic orchestra twice. One all Tchaichortsky - Russian violinist — and Spanish pianist. We've seen 4 plays — from light comedy to melodrama.

We've walked three parts of 3 villages of London — Chelsea Kensington and Hampstead. The Carlyle home in Chilsea — and Keats home in Hampstead.

Tomorrow we see the Royal Botanical gardens at Wisley.

Before London and environs —we had a week motoring through Scotland—from Prestwick up thru Wallace country! A week headquartering at a small inn in Pehshire and motoring thru the countryside.

That part of Scotland has great variety of scenery—heatheered hills, sweeping moors, grazing meadows full of sheep —cozy glens — romatic "lochs" —fields of wheat, barley and oats being harvested!

Then to Edinburgh — city of splendor and pageantry! On the way we've stopped at a few old castles and historic sites and churches and cathedrals! Even took a run up to Cambridge the other day!—Monday we're off to Spain and Portugal! This all takes stamina and strong legs! We'll be home November 7, ready for the green clean mountains of N. C.—hog back, grits and biscuits soaked with sorghum. I've a few new recipes for Mrs. Alderman. Hope all is well at ole B.C. Sincerely A.W.

Bonfire Planned For Friday Nite

Homecoming is the time for enthusiasm and school spirit, and this year there will be many opportunities for the Brevard College student body to show their school spirit.

A bonfire will be held tonight at 9:30 down by the barn. The cheerleaders urge the support of every student, not only at the Homecoming game tomorrow, but also at the bonfire. Our soccer team has worked hard this year to become a good team, and they need to be backed by the entire student body. So come on gang, let's show our team we're really behind them. Come to these events; and above all, really yell for our team. Brevard is best, and we want everyone to know it!

better facilities. This week of Homecoming, students, faculty, and alumni alike should "take account" of Brevard College and reach the inevitable conclusion that it is the best in the land. But at the same time, we should also think of the many persons who presented generous gifts in the interest of Brevard College and education.

Plans For Dance Are Fab

By Rod Brinkley

For many days now, a small group of ladies have spent many hours working on the decorations for the Homecoming Dance Saturday night.

Pat McCorkle and Minnie Lloyd, co-chairmen for the Homecoming Dance, set up various committees to handle the many tasks needed to have a successful dance. These committees are headed by Steph Campbell, Karen Hurd, Cathy Hedric, Peggy Mizell, and Sue Shad.

The theme of the dance has not been revealed, but if one had a sneak preview, he might see five lovely girls on a ship with tropical surroundings. These girls make up the 1967 Homecoming Court.

Sam Robinson and Beaver Hall, who are in charge of entertainment, have signed a soul combo called Little Caesar and the Euterpeans.

Pat McCorkle wishes to thank Mr. Cantrell and his maintenance crew for all their help. Many people have put much time and effort to make this year's dance the most successful yet.

Brevard College is going all out to welcome back the graduates and the alumni and make Homecoming '67 truly the best ever.

ATTENTION BIOLOGY STUDENTS

Mr. John Kritzle, oceanographer of Florida State University, will present slides of his work to biology students October 16 at 7 p. m. in Dunham Auditorium. All biology students are required to attend.

Room 228 In Demand

NO, Jeannie Selleck isn't trying to topple the column on the Jones Portico. As president of Jones Dorm, it's up to her to keep things straight.

"Where's Jeannie's room?" Is Jeannie here?" "I need to see Jeannie immediately!" To the girls of Jones Hall, second floor, these are familiar phrases. Jeannie Selleck is a girl who is always in demand. Being president of a dorm filled with 185 girls is no easy job as Jeannie is finding out.

Jeannie came to Brevard because she likes the South and wanted to attend a small school. She is majoring in Secretarial Science.

Besides being President of Jones Hall, she is a member of S.G.A., the Mnemosynean Society, the Business Club, President of Westminster Fellowship and a Big Sister. These activities keep Jeannie pretty busy, but she still has time to be Mr. Miles' student assistant, and get in a little studying also.

If you ever hear Jeannie repeating the word Rich, it's not because she's money crazy. It happens that Rich is the guy back home that Jeannie talks about so often.

Jeannie was a cheerleader in high school and enjoys sports, especially a good football game. She also likes water skiing.

After graduation she plans to become a dental assistant and may go into training for this for about six months.

Jeannie is from Wilmington,

Donate To Save-A-Child?

Would you like to contribute to Save-a-Child this weekend? Closing hours in the girls' dormitories are being extended for a half-hour this Saturday night for the Homecoming Dance. The price is a penny for every minute after twelve, which is a nominal sum for the support of Yung Hwan Yoon of Korea. Besides this project, there will be a fund drive during the first semester to reach the halfway point in Yung Hwan's fund.

Here is Yung Hwan's latest letter

Dear Sponsors,

I believe all of you are fine and well with your school works. It is still hot here, but we are getting along well by your favor. Well this hot weather will be over soon, and the cool autumnal season is coming to us gradually.

I am now on summer vacation, but have to study harder to pass the senior high school entrance exam to be held early next year. The second semester of our school is to begin from Sept. 1, but during this summer holiday, I had to attend school to get the extra study of five hours every day. The exam is hard, as it has the desperative competition among the applicants. And to get myself ready for it better, I am receiving the special extra study with some of my friends of 5 in a group under the guidance of a tutor after school.

With many thanks, we got the cash benefits twice from you lately, totaling 11,970 won, and could buy all the necessary books for the exam, and paid for my school tuition. The rest of them will be paid for my school tuition. The rest of them will be paid for my entrance tuition to the senior high school.

I will study hard with the thought of your kindness in my heart. After summer vacation, I will write to you soon again. May God bless you and yours richly.

Sincerely,
Yoon, Yung Hwan
