

Green Dormitory Is A Center Of Action

By Wally Smith

The above picture is of Green Dormitory, located on the far end of the campus. The purpose of the picture and this story is to acquaint the students with Green Hall in case they have never seen it before, which is a possibility because Green Hall is never in any publications put out by the college. Green Hall is now in the midst of an industrial and economic revolution conducted by its capable team of officers. The head of the brainwork, Dave Cooke as president, the energetic Dave Fussell as vice-president, and the on-the-ball secretary - treasurer, Wally Smith, are combining forces and slowly pulling Green Hall out of its age-old depression of dreary halls, blah recreation rooms, and years of debt. Green Hall is now confronted with the prospects of a rebuilt and refurbished recreation room and the possibility of a color television and new ping-pong table. Let it be known, however, that none of this would ever be possible without the relentless help of the dorm director Mrs. Walker. Besides all of this, Green Hall is just full of extraordinary personalities. Green Hall basement, as you probably know, houses the majority of the track and cross country team and it is the most disciplined and quietest hall in the dorm, next to third floor, that is. The first floor stars include two more trackmen — Bob Julian, and Ned Jones, two officers — Wally Smith and Dave Cooke, and fun-loving Davie Marvin and Harold Hearne with his unicycle. Moving up to second floor you will find another track man, Roger Jones, and veterans Dave Shelor and Yoshi Takahashi. Third floor, home of Radio Free Brevard, got off on a bad foot at the start of the year, but Bob Gray as hall proctor and Steve Sellman as head of Housekeeping have kept the boys in line. Many people find Green Hall an interesting place to visit, especially those who are in Beam but roomed in Green last year. At least once a day Gary Arm-

Movie To Be Shown On Sat. Night

Saturday night, "The Cardinal" will be shown in Dunham Auditorium at 8:00. "The Cardinal" is a delicate masterpiece that spans two vibrant decades and two beautiful continents in tracing the complex life of a young Irish-American from his ordination as a priest to his ordination as a cardinal. Through the long, hard years just after his first assignment in America, through his despairing wanderings over Europe in search of a new life and his return to the cloth, we see Father Stephen Fermoye grow from a man who easily learned the rules of the church but little else, to a mature understanding priest. Although the inner conflicts of the man himself are a key theme they serve also to contrast the much larger conflicts in the world around him. The colorful pomp and circumstance of the Catholic Liturgy is offset by Hitler's atrocious invasion of Austria, and by the bitter consequences of segregation in our own country! A complex and intelligent story told in no-compromise terms, "The Cardinal" will enthrall people of all ages and groups. Starring in "The Cardinal" are Tom Tyron, Romy Schneider, Carol Lynley, and Burgess Meredith.

Then, next Sunday and Monday, the Madrigals and ten instrumentalists will be on tour with Miss Moser and Miss Tillotson. The first performance

In a large crowd, he can always be seen head and shoulders above the rest. Being the tallest boy on campus has its advantages, but Paul Hendrix can also list a few handicaps of boasting a 6'7" frame. Paul, who is from the great little city of Belton, South Carolina, is one of the returning letterman for Brevard's basketball team. He is also a center for the team, and his height will be a great help to the Tornados this year.

Biology is Paul's major subject and he also enjoys chemistry. During Christmas he will be among the biology students making a trip to the Bahamas.

Paul is a member of the Delphian Society. He is a member of Men's House Council, and a hall proctor for Green basement. Last midterm his name was among those on the Dean's List.

Basketball takes up much of Paul's time, but when not on the basketball court, he may be found throwing rocks at the window of room 213, Jones Hall.

After graduation, Paul hasn't decided what college he'll attend, but we're sure that he'll be a success in anything he undertakes. After all, he's already up in the world!

will be given November 19, at Ogburn Memorial Methodist Church in Winston-Salem. The next day, November 20, the musical group will travel to Hickory to perform at Catawba Valley Technical Institute. A high school in the area may also be privileged to hear the group, although, definite plans have not been made. Finally, on November 26, the group will sing and play various instruments at Skyland Methodist Church near Asheville.

Both instructors, Miss Tillotson and Miss Moser, have recently returned from the Music Educators National Conference held last week-end November 11-12 at UNC at Greensboro. Peggy Killian, a music major at Brevard accompanied the musical instructors.
