

ACTIVITY HIGHLIGHTS

Movie Sat. & Sun.

THE FABULOUS BARON MUNCHAUSEN will be presented this Saturday and Sunday evenings in Dunham Auditorium at 8:00 p. m.

The film is a Czech movie of science fiction and fantasy. It is in color and was written and directed by Karel Zeman. The film is based on a novel by G. A. Burger.

Tonik, the first astronaut to reach the moon, finds five "Romantics" of the past already there. Baron Munchausen, Cyrano de Bergerac, and Jules Verne's three travelers from Journey to the Moon. The Baron invites Tonik along on a trip to earth in a spaceship pulled by Pegasus. They alight on the sea, and Munchausen steers the ship to Constantinople, where he and Toni free a beautiful harem girl. Pursued by the Sultan's horsemen, and then by his armada, the Baron, of course, escapes through a brilliant maneuver. Then on to rivalry with Tonik for the hand of the lovely Bianca, a journey in the giant whale and aboard the pirate ship, a ride in the cannon ball at besieged Gibraltar - and eventually, thanks to the Baron and a well full of gunpowder, a space flight!

Aspiring Secretaries

Give Views

At the suggestion of their instructor, Mrs. Munro, the Secretarial Science 29 students submitted, in a letter to Dr. Philip Shore, Chairman of the Presidential Committee, characteristics that they believe Brevard College's next president should possess. Mrs. Munro would like to share some excerpts from these papers with the student body.

"This man will dedicate himself to Brevard, to the administration, to the faculty, to the students, and to the church. He will realize that his work is a duty, but he will not look at it in this respect. He will want to help students with problems, and he will give honest opinions because he is unselfish, understanding, and kind. Yet, he will be truly realistic and straightforward in doing so."

"... To meet the demands of an expanding school, this man should be conservative, yet liberal minded. He should be able to fortell what Brevard College will be like ten years from now so that he can work toward making these plans possible."

"... he should know people and be able to understand them. He should have concern for moral and spiritual values in himself as well as in others."

"... he must be able to accept grave responsibilities and be ready at all times for the unexpected. This man must have an open mind. Life will change from year to year, and he must be willing to accept the new trends. He must listen to those around him and strive to see their point of view."

Sherry Keeter - Olympic Performer

What better excuse can one have for cutting classes at Brevard College than that of attending the 1968 Olympics held recently in Mexico City? And to add even more luster to the excuse is to attend as a member of the 1968 United States team.

This was the plea that was presented to the administration office recently when one of the BC coeds was selected to go on the trip. Luckily for Sherry Keeter, the administration gladly co-operated and Sherry was off for an all - expense paid jaunt to Mexico and the Olympics.

But, it is hard to view Sherry running a mile, throwing the javelin, or swimming frantically up and down a pool as you see her stepping lightly, with a quick, flashing smile and bouncing brown hair, across the Brevard campus. Sherry was a member of a new phase of the Olympics, culture. She is a member of the Blue Ridge Mountain Dancers which were among several performances that represented the United States in the new branch.

Thus, the Snow White dream became a reality for Sherry, and she was dancing her way to the capital of a foreign country and was a member of the 1968 Olympics.

The group arrived in Mexico on October 5, and the dancers stayed in the Villa Coapa, an apartment house built especially for performers from all over the world that would be participating in the cultural end of the Olympics.

Sherry also made many friends in Mexico. "Oh, the people are really wonderful. I have never met anyone like them," she said, with a slight gleam in her light blue eyes. "They are the friendliest people I've ever met."

Sherry cited several cases in which the people of Mexico went out of their way to make the visitors feel right at home.

Practice for the Blue Ridge Mountain Dancers was a little rougher than usual, due to the higher climate.

After dancing during the Olympics, the group left Mexico on October 17 and returned to the United States. The group did not return straight home, but stopped and put on a show in St. Louis, Mo.

Sherry is back on the BC campus now, and she fits right in with the other students. To look at her, it would be hard to imagine her an Olympic star, but Sherry will never forget her little trip.

Helen Wright Is Student of the Week

Helen Wright, a home economics major from Clemson, S. C., is this week's Student of the week.

During her year and a half at Brevard, Helen has been very active on many committees. Last year she served as chairman of decorations for the Spring Dance and worked on decorations for the Christmas Dance. She was also a member of House Council and was a hall proctor.

This year, Helen has been very busy as chairman of the decorations for the Homecoming Dance and publicity agent for the Appalachian Mountain Festival.

She is a member of the Eu-terps and S.N.E.A. She likes children, so to fulfill the interest, she tutors first and second grade physical education at Brevard Elementary School during the week.

When in high school, she liked to clog and square dance. According to Helen, "There's good exercise and lots of fun in dancing. It's something different."

Helen likes to cook and attend track meets. Last year, she was a constant spectator at the meets.

As for plans for the future, Helen plans to continue her education and possibly teach when she graduates.
