Five-Day Week Is Approved By College

The Presidential Council has ratified the decision of a faculty administration committee which met last academic year to have a five-day class system. The committee stated at the time that the new system should go into effect no later than the fall of 1970-71.

The Presidential Council reported that it discussed the proposal many times and decided that there would be no advantage in postponing the new system.

Grady H. Whicker, Dean of the College, stated, "Other institutions are on this system, and anything they can do, Brevard can do."

The new system will go into effect beginning with the first semester of the 1969-70 academic year.

Faculty Members Attend State Meeting Of DKG

The Delta Kappa Gamma international society for women educators held its state convention at the Carolinian at Nags Head, April 24 - 27. The theme of the convention was "Thought is the seed of action . . . Thought rules the world." Mrs. Rosalie Pruette of High Point, President of Eta state, presided at all sessions.

The luncheon on Saturday celebrated the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the society. A tribute to the founders was given by Mrs. Grace Munro, director of region nine and member of the Brevard College Faculty. Miss Cordelia Camp, one of the state founders, was an honor guest. The speaker for the occasion was Miss Lisa Sergio, author and lecturer of Washington, D. C. Born in Florence, Italy, an archaeologist, newscaster, translator for Mussolini, she escaped from Italy during the Fascist regime and came to the United States. Speaking of "Woman, the Guardian of the Unchanging Values," she emphasized that in a changing society it is the woman who must maintain those unchanging values on which a stable society is built. The young are looking for something that will bring solidarity.

Women must guard these values and by example transmit them.

The speaker Saturday evening was Mrs. Gladys McDaniel of Austin, Texas, Treasurer of Delta Kappa Gamma International. In her address on "The Beacon of Delta Kappa Gamma" she told of the beginning of the society by twelve women in 1929, which has grown in size and influence to 107,000 members. There are 63 chapters in North Carolina. She urged the members of the society to face a challenging opportunity to use this strength to establish peace and understanding among all nations of the world.

Officers for the coming year were installed. Mrs. Mary Stevenson assistant librarian of Brevard College, will serve as chairman of the nominating committee for the biennium.

Members of the Alpha Lambda chapter attending were Mrs. Munro, Mrs. Anna Holliday, Mrs. Anna Shipman, Mrs. Geneva Gillespie, Mrs. Maye Winget, Mrs. Stevenson and Mrs. Ena Kate Sigmon, chairman of the English Department of Brevard College, who represented the president, Miss Charlotte Turner, who was unable to attend.

Presidential Candidates Give Views, Comments

The most important political race presently being conducted on the Brevard College campus is the Student Government Association presidential race. The two candidates in the running are both experienced in student affairs and student government on campus.

The CLARION contacted both candidates earlier this week for comments concerning their platform, their opinion of campus problems, and their ideas for solving the problems.

Candidate Ken Eaton pointed a distinct finger at student apathy on campus.

"A major problem that exists on the campus now is the contentment of various persons from all three angles, namely faculty, administration, and students," Eaton commented. "There exists an attitude that 'what is all right with me will be fine.' Many are not willing to sacrifice for the benefit of others."

"I will call it by its name—selfishness," he concluded.

A major change in the governing of the affairs of Brevard College this year has been the Presidential Council, which acted as would a President until the new one could take office. Eaton had much praise for the efforts of the Presidential Council.

"I think the Council has done a tremendous job," he remarked, "and as a whole, I don't think that they could have done any better."

"But I do think that having a President, one man, will definitely be better for all concerned because the Council, composed of five men, could not make a decision without consulting each other," Eaton suggested. "Actually, it was very hard for the Council to make any decision without ample group consideration. I think one man can do what the Presidential Council could not."

When asked what he would attempt to do if elected, Eaton replied, "I would definitely make decisions without beating around the bush and would encourage such decisions and definite stand to others."

"I think the SGA has become bogged down so many times this past year in trivial matters that it has neglected its real duty."

"As president, I would definitely take a stand on the issue, regardless of what it was, and try to promote the actual duty and obligation of the SGA," he concluded.

Candidate Wayne Lottinville stated that the social atmosphere is in terrific need of reform.

"Next year, Brevard College will be on a five-day week which means that students will need a much more comprehensive social program on campus, he commented."

Lottinville, however, pointed out that a report from the Social Activities Committee has been submitted to the Presidential Council concerning the lack of social activities and outlining solutions to the problem.

"One of the major points recommended for reform is that all social functions of the S.G.A. be removed from it," he stated. "This would give the S.G.A. an opportunity to investigate other important matters and to develop into a S.G.A. that will be a benefit rather than a hindrance to students."

Commenting on the reform of the S.G.A. Constitution, Lottinville stated, "I feel that one
