Liz Taylor And Marlon Brando To Star In Tonight's Movie

"An army post in peacetime is a dull place," author Carson McCullers begins her best-selling novel, REFLECTIONS IN A GOLDEN EYE. But this "dull" Southern army base is actually seething with the passions and frustrations of troubled people.

Warner Bros. - Seven Arts is releasing the film version of Mrs. McCullers' poignant novel with Elizabeth Taylor, Marlon Brando, Julie Harris and Brian Keith starring in the explosive drama. Directed by John Huston and produced by Ray Stark, the drama was filmed in Panavision and in Technicolor. The film will be shown in Dunham Auditorium, tonight at 9:30, after the basketball game.

"There is a fort in the South where a few years ago a murder was committed," Mrs. McCullers' novel continues. "The participants of this tragedy were two officers, a soldier, two women, a Filipino, and a horse." The monotony of the post life seemingly bred a garden of neuroses among the residents. Marlon Brando portrays Major Weldon Penderton, who has a brilliant service career ahead of him. He is, however, out of control of his bizarre emotions and relationships.

Elizabeth Taylor, twice-winner of the Academy Award for Best Actress, portrays Brando's wife. She is a rather racy, sensuous Southern girl who is passionately fond of horseback riding, eating and other men. Her latest affair is with her neighbor, Lt. Col. Morris Langdon, played by Brian Keith. He is simple, rather brutish, and like Mrs. Penderton is fond of elemental pleasures.

Julie Harris plays the Colonel's wife. She is a distraught semi-invalid who is pushed closer to an impending emotional explosion by her husband's affair with Leonora. She attempts to escape her problems through a platonic relationship with her Filipino houseboy, Anacleto, played by Zorro David.

Robert Forester portrays Private Ellgee Williams, a back-country youth who, night after night, spies on the Penderton house, even penetrating Leonora's bedroom to sit at her side and watch her as she sleeps. His presence on the fort unnerves Major Penderton and infuriates him when he catches the Private in his wife's bedroom.

The movie, sponsored by the Social board, will cost 70 cents for admission.

Elections Committee Will Supervise Voting

The Elections Committee is in the process of organizing the spring elections this year. To stimulate a wider interest, more students will be involved with the election. The Elections Committee wishes to make elections this spring a success never equalled before.

Dorm elections will be supervised by an elections committee member, who will work hand-in-hand with the dorm president. Also this year hall counselors will be asked to assist in the elections. It is a new method; but if the old one did not work, then another one must be initiated.

Spring elections will begin on April 7th when the students will vote on the new constitution. Dave Chestnut and the Constitutional Revision Committee are now in the final stages of this document. Dorm Officers will also be elected on this date.

April 19 will be the day for the election of class officers, class representatives, President of the Day Students, and SGA executive officers.

The Elections Committee will in the near future inform the students of the exact details. Everyone is urged to participate in the spring elections.

Allan Wallace, Former Brevard Employee, Dies

Allan Wallace, a former employee of Brevard College died Tuesday morning in Tryon, North Carolina. Mr. Wallace came to Brevard in the fall of 1958 and taught drama, speech, journalism, and worked in both the Admissions and Public Relations departments here at the college.

An accomplished director, Mr. Wallace was Vice President in charge of Radio and T.V. programs for a major network from 1945-58. He helped produce such programs as FIBBER MCGEE AND MOLLY, SKY KING, YANCEY DERRINGER, LIFE WITH FATHER, and THE STEVE ALLEN SHOW.

Dean Whicker remembers Mr. Wallace as "quite a remarkable fellow, who called a spade a spade." He moved from Brevard to Tryon several years ago for reasons of health. Funeral services were held in Tryon on Wednesday afternoon.

Donation Is Made As Bruce Smith Memorial Gets Bulletin Board

In memory of student Bruce Smith, killed during the Christmas holidays in an automobile accident, a donation of $25 has been collected. It will be given this semester in Bruce's memory to a student with need from East Beam Dormitory, where Bruce lived while at Brevard College. The announcement was made this week by Mrs. Louise Brackett, director of East Beam.

A new bulletin board has been put up on the second floor of the classroom building in the Business Department. The Secretarial Science 27 class, under the supervision of Mrs. Grace Munro, is responsible for this bulletin board.

The theme for this project illustrates the various skills and "secretarial sense" needed by the secretary of today.

Students are urged to stop by and view the new display.
