

FRAN PHILLIPS

CHARLES VAN BLARICOM

TREVA LEE

Variety Of Instrumental Music To Be Presented In Tonight's Recital

A variety of instrumental music will be presented when the Music Department of Brevard College presents its formal Sophomore Recital on Friday evening, April 30, at 8:00

p. m., in the Dunham Music Center.

Fran Phillips, oboist, will present an oboe solo from the Classical Period - Concerto in B-flat Major by Karl Stamitz and a contemporary American selection, The Winter's Past, by Wayne Barlow. In addition, she will perform with the Brevard College Woodwind Quintet which will play Milhous' well-known quintet based on French folk melodies, La Cheminee du Roi Rene. Tim Piper is Fran's accompanist.

Charles Van Blaricom, classical guitarist, will perform guitar solos which span many historical periods, including early late music. More recent compositions by such composers as Ferdinand Sor, Francisco Tarrega, and Heitor Villa-Lobos are also included. Both Fran and Van Blaricom are pupils of Miss Joan Moser of the faculty.

Treva Lee, pianist, will also be included on the program. She will perform works of Bach, Scarlatti, Bartok, Chopin, and Debussy. Treva is a sophomore music major studying with Mrs. Louise Miller.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Miles Plans Tour Of Western Europe

By Mike Jones

Mr. Louis Miles, associate professor of history here at Brevard College, is taking his sabbatical leave from May 29 until mid August 1972. Mr. Miles plans to visit all of western Europe on his trip, including 14 weeks in Spain, 12 weeks in England, 8 weeks in Italy, 8 weeks in Greece, and shorter stays in France, Germany, and other European countries.

Faculty members are eligible for sabbatical leave when they have completed 9 years of teaching at Brevard. Thereafter, they are eligible for sabbatical leave every seventh year for either a semester or a full year. During their leave, the participants must work on a project which is approved by a faculty committee. Mr. Miles' project is to spend a year visiting centers in which European civilization developed.

An 11-year veteran of teaching at Brevard, Mr. Miles attended Berea College and received two graduate degrees from Boston University. He is also an ordained Methodist minister and has written 135,000 words for publication in Methodist church school curriculum materials.

of sound. The clavichord has a soft and delicate tone and is most-ly used for personal enjoyment. This is a reason why the clavichord has lost its popularity for it isn't loud enough for a band or orchestra. This is also the reason Phil built one.

A clavichord, off the showroom floor, costs anywhere from $600 to $1400. Phil bought the kit for $200 and in about two months he had his clavichord, which he can play quite adequately even though he is self-taught. It is not often that one finds a person who will work this hard and long, between classes and homework assignments, to build his own instrument, especially if it's a clavichord.

Student Phillip Hopkins Has Unusual Hobby

By Dennis Avery

If you ever wish to build, play, or just have a general knowldege about a clavichord, visit Phillip Hopkins, third floor Taylor Dormitory, for he has single-handedly built his own clavichord.

Phil, a freshman here at Brevard College, served in the Air Force from 1966 to 1970.

A clavichord is an instrument on the same scale as the harpsichord or piano. Clavichords were popular from 1400 to about 1750. The clavichord and harpsichord are the early predecessors of the modern day piano. The only difference between a calvichord and a piano is that a clavichord has fifty-four keys and a piano has eighty-eight and a broader range of sound. The clavichord has a soft and delicate tone and is most-ly used for personal enjoyment. This is a reason why the clavichord has lost its popularity for it isn't loud enough for a band or orchestra. This is also the reason Phil built one.

A clavichord, off the showroom floor, costs anywhere from $600 to $1400. Phil bought the kit for $200 and in about two months he had his clavichord, which he can play quite adequately even though he is self-taught. It is not often that one finds a person who will work this hard and long, between classes and homework assignments, to build his own instrument, especially if it's a clavichord.

Dr. B. Elmo Scoggin Will Speak In Convocation

The speaker for the final convocation of the year, Wednesday, May 5, will be Dr. B. Elmo Scoggin, a Professor of the Old Testament at the Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary in Wake Forest. The convocation will be held at 6:30 p. m. in Dunham Auditorium, and Dr. Scoggin's subject will be "You can't trust anyone under 55."

Dr. Scoggin received his A. B. from Furman University, and both a Th. M. and a Th. D. from Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky. He has also studied extensively in Israel. He is a member of the American Society of Biblical Literature and Exegesis, the National Geographic Society, and the Baptist Professors of Religion.

Dr. Scoggin has published articles for the Commision, Outlook and other denominational publications. He also has writ-

DR. B. ELMO SCOGGIN

Masquers Hold Final Meeting

Last Tuesday at a banquet dinner in the cafeteria, the Masquers held their last annual meeting. The 1971-72 officers were elected. Jane Hodge was elected as president; Marilyn Myers as vice president; and Jayne Sams was elected to the position of secretary-treasurer.

Each member of the Masquers was also given the opportunity to select the two members, one male and the other female, of the club who have contributed the most to the productions given each year. The recipients must be sophomores. It is hoped that not only those in front of the curtain were considered, but also those helping in the fields of directing, make-up, lighting, set construction, and so on. The two winners will be announced at graduation and will be presented medals.

A presentation of gratitude was given to Mr. and Mrs. Cope after the recent performance of Camelot, for their help with direction and costuming. Will Kimple and Berry Pigeon were acknowledged at the meeting for their contributions to lighting and to make-up. In addition, a special award was given Mr. Cantrell for his unselfish and never-ending services to make The Mouse that Roared and Camelot the great successes they were.

Allen H. Sims Is Honored Thursday

On Thursday, April 29, Brevard College honored one of its most distinguished and dedicated leaders, Allen H. Sims, Chairman of the Board of Trustees. Highlighting the day was the dedication of the new Sims Student Union Building designed to serve as a center for college activities. The building features recreational and lounging facilities as well as the College Post Office, Bookstore and Tornado Room (Snack Bar). Funds for the building were raised by the trustees of the college as a tribute to Mr. Sims, Board member since 1945 and chairman of the Board since 1961.

Leading the Service of Dedication was Dr. Robert A. Davis, President of the College and W. Bryan Moore, Vice Chairman of the Board.

Mr. Sims was also honored at a dinner on Thursday evening when the trustees and members of the town and college community paid tribute to him for his outstanding leadership over almost three decades. The trustees continued in business session through Friday noon.

Commenting on Mr. Sims' contribution to the college, President Davis stated, "Much of the strength and excellence of Brevard College today is the result of Mr. Sims' vision and leadership. His untiring efforts in behalf of the college have brought support from many other individuals and groups within the state. It is most fitting that this newest building on our campus bear his name."

Mike Jones Named Clarion Editor, 71-72

The 1971-72 editor of the Clarion has been named. Mike Jones, of High Point, a freshman this year, has accepted the position. Making the announcement was outgoing editor Mark Todd, who is a sophomore.

In making the announcement Todd stated, "Mike has all the tools to do a fine job next year, and he certainly has the ambition. I feel he will serve the College well in 1971-72."

Todd, who is from Clearwater, Florida, also served as associate editor in the spring of 1970, as Jones did this year.