Nevertheless, Western won the game by a close, 53-50 score.

Harrison, White place in T.I.A.C. meet

Brevard had trouble this weekend in the T.I.A.C. meet in Knoxville, Tenn. Brevard's placers were Lynn Harrison, third place in the pole vault and Clay White, fourth place in the triple jump. Gene Hehe-mann just missed qualifying in the 880 with a time of 203.7.

Patsy Neal-authoress, athlete-teaches at Brevard College

"I love a small school setting and the close knit feeling of a small school." These are words spoken by Miss Patsy Neal when asked why someone as famous as she would choose a small school like Brevard.

Miss Neal is a graduate of Wayland College where she majored in psychology with minors in P.E. and English. At Wayland College and University of Utah, where she received her masters in P.E., she played basketball. In recognition for her talent, she was chosen All-American three times, in 1959, 1960, and 1965. In addition to these honors she was national free throw champion in 1957 and captain of the United States team in the World Tourney of Peru, 1964. She toured France, Russia, and Germany as a member of the U. S. All Stars team.

She played in the Pan American Games in the winter of 1959 and then the next winter (59-60) played a Russian team in Madison Square Garden. The summer of 1970, she played with Sports Ambassadors of the U.S. against a Mexican team. In addition to basketball, she was ranked in N.C. in singles and doubles in tennis and coached our Brevard team for four years.

In addition to her sports activities, she is also an authoress, having published textbooks, Basketball Techniques for Women, Coaching Methods for Women, and Sport and Identity which was released only yesterday. She has had articles published in the Journal of HPER, Amateur Athlete, Christian Athlete, D.G.W.S. Basketball Guide and has won three freedom Foundation Awards for essays.

Miss Neal is also well-known in the education field. She has recently been nominated for inclusion in "Outstanding Educators of America." She has been bestowed with such honors as Personality of the South, Whose Who in Young American Women, Whose Who in American Women. She stays on the road much of the time giving clinics. Last September, she gave a basketball workshop in Jacksonville, Fla., for teachers, and then she gave a clinic at Jacksonville University. January was spent giving workshops at University of Tenn. and Florida State. March weekends are full for Miss Neal. She will present awards at the Regional College Girls Basketball tournament at Appalachian University, will attend the National Collegiate Tournament at Illinois State and be speaker at AAHPER Convention in Houston, Texas. April is a little lighter. She will be giving a seminar for teachers on the Philosophy of Sports. Next summer, she will run the Patsy Neal Basketball School. She receives girls from 8 different states to participate in her school, held every summer.

Miss Neal started playing basketball as a child with a stiff opposing team — her older brother. Her father put up a goal in the back yard and her career was started. She was on the elementary school team and was then on the high school team where she was offered a scholarship to Wayland College. When asked about her opinion in girls' basketball, she said that it was on the upswing again after a decline of the 60's. She said that she thought it would reach new peaks. Miss Neal teaches for the college two days a week so that she can write more. She is thinking of a new book on mental powers of individuals.

She really enjoys the people here. She said they seem to put forth a lot of effort.
