

Cheerleading support still active in spring sports

By Jill Wright

Now that second semester is almost over, soccer and basketball things of the past, the eight blue skirts and vests, eight white blouses, and eight socks with blue and white saddle oxfords (better known as eight cheerleading uniforms) aren't seen anymore, but our eight loud mouths haven't finished yet. There's still track and golf which will definitely be supported.

Many students are often confused as to a what cheerleader's job consists of, and it's quite apparent that some of us didn't quite know the different jobs we would be faced with. Yet we found that the work we did was worthwhile and loads of fun.

For instance: approximately four signs were made for each game, three were to advertise the games, and the other was for the guy's locker rooms to let them know we were behind them all the way.

Then on three different occasions pep rallies were held: one at the beginning of soccer season, one the night before homecoming with a large bonfire, and the other during basketball season.

During Homecoming we wore new uniforms, but a few weeks before the game we were making many trips to Marcia Husband's room for measurements, pinning and alterations. By homecoming we had our hot pants and vests on, standing in the rain yelling as loud as we could.

Yet cheerleaders have budgets to live on, so to pay for the uniforms we sold pizzas. Although they weren't a la Iron Gate they still sold and the money sure helped.

Many thanks to the student body for the support given to Brevard's teams, from the cheerleaders 1971-72. Sophomores: Kathy Schilling, Barbara Allen, Lynn Taylor, Talley West, Kathy Stith, Freshmen: Nancy Alexander, Cecelia Chiles and myself.

Our main purpose was to promote spirit and I can definitely say that we feel we have succeeded. We thank you for the support given during the tournaments.

Magazine soon to arrive

Chiarioscuro, Brevard's literary magazine, will soon arrive and will be sold in Mrs. Sarah Beard's office. Copies will also be available at fifty cents each through the bookstore, editor Lynn Ryder, staff members, and in the dorms.

With sufficient sales this year, next year's book will be longer and will include more short stories, poems, and art work. All pieces used in the magazine are contributed by students. The staff reads through the poems (with the author's name removed) and rates them. Those rated highest are the first chosen to be put in.

Chiarioscuro will be on sale until the end of the year.

Students can be extremely helpful when they each act as representatives of the college whenever they are in any of the surrounding towns and cities. It is on these occasions they most often give outsiders the truest picture of the type of person Brevard College educates and develops.

Sport briefs

On Friday the 10th, the Brevard golfers traveled to Wingate for their first match of the spring. In a tri-match with Mitchell and Wingate Colleges, the Brevard golfers defeated Mitchell but fell to Wingate. Medalist for Brevard was Jimmy Martin. The golfers will next travel to Anderson for a match on Thursday, the 16th.

The campus ping-pong tournament was held Monday night at 7:30. Those participating were Steve Misenheimer, Harley Smith, Marvin Davis, Jim Martin, Jim DuVall, and Bob Carlson. The winner of the mens' singles was Steve Misenheimer, with Harley Smith as first runner-up. Doubles champions were Steve Misenheimer and Harley Smith.

Informal recitals held Tuesdays

Several interesting informal recitals sponsored by the music department are being held on Tuesday afternoons at 4:30 p. m. Students interested in the Tuesday afternoon recitals are invited to attend free of charge.

On Tuesday, March 14, Sigfrid Ostborg, cellist, appeared as guest recitalist from Western Carolina University. With him was Henry Lofquist, also of the WCU staff. These artists appeared as part of the faculty exchange program between WCU and Brevard music faculty.

On Tuesday, March 21, there will be an informal student recital in the sanctuary of the First Methodist Church. This will feature primarily organ students with several instrumentalists and vocalists.

On Saturday, March 18, the Western Carolina Chapter of the American Guild of Organists will hold a choral workshop at Mars Hill College. This workshop, lasting from 2:00 - 4:30 p. m., will be led by Dr. Lynn Whitton of the University of Colorado.

Several Brevard students are planning to attend this workshop. Transportation is provided, and those attending are also invited to supper at the Mars Hill cafeteria. Afterwards will be the monthly AGO meeting featuring Dr. Whitton in an informal discussion. Mr. Nelson Adams, chairman of the Division of Fine Arts at Brevard, is Dean of the AGO chapter.

BC faces first meet

Brevard's track team had a practice meet Thursday, March 9th against Western Carolina. The two top performances were turned in by Lee Stoffel, and Craik Goodspeed. Stoffel won the discus with a throw of 147 feet and Goodspeed came within .2 of a second of the school record and winning the 440 intermediate hurdles. David Miller running unattached won the only other event from Brevard, 120 high hurdles.

Some of the other performers that turned in respectable times were Gene Hehemann, running a 4:33 mile, Bill Triplett, running a 4:36 mile and Jerry Pugh running a 4:40 mile. These were either their personal best or very close to it. When asked about the meet, Coach Witek had this to offer: "Brevard had some disappointing performances but I hope that they can be worked out before the regular season begins. I am very pleased with the way the distance runners are performing and have high hopes for them as individuals."

Brevard's meet with Wingate on Thursday, March 16th was cancelled due to lack of preparation on Wingates behalf. Brevard's next meet will be Saturday, March 18th, when the track team will participate in the News Piedmont Relays, Greenville, South Carolina.

Coed volleyball tourney ends

Which is the best coed volleyball team at Brevard College? The recent intramural volleyball tournament held on campus helped answer this question.

Winning the tournament were the faculty-staff representatives. Team members included Miss Neal, Miss Anderson, Mrs. Witek, Coach Witek, Coach Burch and Guy Payne.

Runner - up in the ten team event was the student team including Phyllis Smith, Suzon Franzske, Shirley Swayney, Jimmy Jacobs, Bobby Miller, and Rod Rudisill.

Commenting on the tournament, Becky McGrady, student director for women's intramurals, said, "I believe it was successful. All participants appeared to have enjoyed themselves immensely."

Becky added that other intramural activities for girls are coming up this semester. Individual sports being scheduled include pool, ping pong, and archery. Kickball is planned as a team activity.

She urges all women to participate.
