BC Enters Year-Long Self-Study Period

Brevard College will begin its institutional self-study this year and has named Mr. Randolph Jackson to be the director and general editor of the self-study.

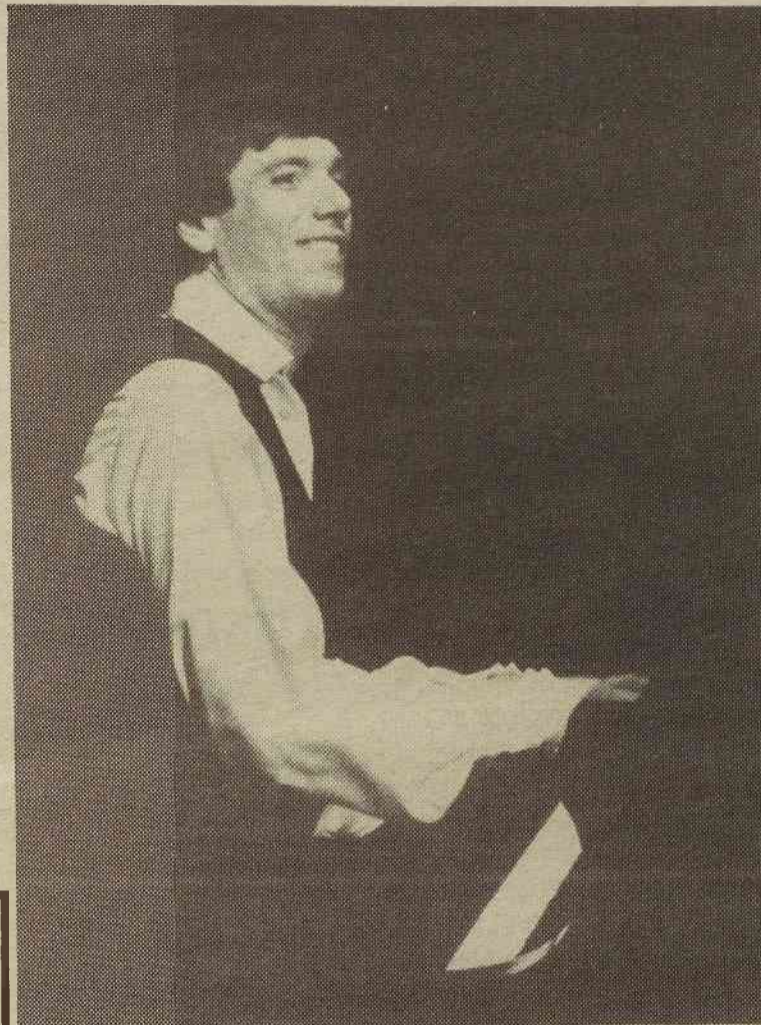

According to Jackson, a college is required by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) to make a self-study every ten years in order to maintain its accreditation. "The process, which takes two years, is designed so that a college may examine its procedures and policies in all its various areas--from the Board of Trustees to the students, from the physical operations to the Admissions office," Jackson says. He also adds that the self-study is considered successful only if the whole college community is involved.

A representative from SACS, Dr. Jean Walker, was on campus

in March for the official "kick off" of the self-study. Soon after, the self-study steering committee, composed of various faculty members, convened with the college committee chairmen to discuss the college's purpose as it is stated in the college handbook. According to Jackson, "The college purpose, clearly stated, is vital for a good self-study.

"The steering committee will work this summer to prepare our in-house manual so that the college community will know what kinds of information we will need to collect in order to compile the final self-study document," Jackson said.

In two years, a visiting committee, appointed by SACS, will spend a week on campus reviewing Brevard's self-study.

Pianist Mac Frampton appears tonight at 8:15 in Dunham Auditorium.

Frampton Performs Tonight

By Robin Thomas

Mac Frampton, known as one of the most exciting and talented young pianists on the American stage today, will be performing at Dunham Auditorium tonight at 8:15 p.m.

A graduate of Erskine College and the Cincinnati Conservatory, Frampton made his professional debut at eight. He later gained national prominence as a bronze medalist in the 1969 Van Cliburn International Piano Competition. He has also made television appearances with the Cincinnati Symphony. Over the past few years, he has appeared with his group in over 1000 concerts in the U.S., Canada, Europe, and the Mid-East. Frampton has also written the score for two original musicals and the arrangements for three others.

Mac Frampton's unique style, varying from classical to rock, and his friendly, relaxed way of performing will make the audience feel at home while also enjoying an evening of exciting entertainment.

Interest Groups Meeting On

BC Campus

By Stephen Wells

Within the next few weeks the newly established Interest Groups will be holding their preliminary meetings at the home of Dean Wray.

The groups, set up by the Dean for the purpose of getting people involved in campus activities, will be convening on different scheduled evenings with the last group meeting being Sept. 26. At each of the meetings, plans for the group will be discussed as will a schedule for future sessions.

"So often it is easy for people to miss out on events and programs," said Dean Wray, "and unfortunately they end up doing very little."

This is the first year the groups have been introduced at Brevard, but the Dean had previously initiated such groups at schools like Vanderbilt University and William and Mary College. Dean Wray also said that the program was a success at the other schools.
