Poetry Corner

What is the goal of life?
To work and only fail?
To suffer, toil and strife,
And one day have sad tale to tell,
Of hopes and dreams
All dashed to bits,
And never to prevail?

The goal that I now see
Is to give my very best,
To succeed in my beliefs
And never worry about the rest.
To try and reach
To learn and teach
And only, myself, to test.

Let me be the poor blind boy
That Cibber once spoke of.
In what I am, be pleased, and enjoy
And keep my goal out of heaven above.
As a child, let dreams soar and roam.
But when older, clip my wings,
And keep me closer to home.

"Then let not what I cannot have
My cheer of mind destroy:
Whilst thus I sing, I am a king,
Although a poor blind boy."

by Lorrin Wolf
Clarion Asst. Editor

Students who wish to earn Project Inside-Out hours over Spring Break must stop by the PIO House to gain approval on the type of volunteer activity from Fran Lynch or Sybil Dodson before Friday afternoon.

"We can't guarantee them the hours unless they come and talk to us first. We also need to work out some way of verifying and documenting how much they volunteered," Dodson said. Students planning to earn credit must fill out a short form after gaining approval. After break, a time card must be dropped off in the PIO House with a supervisor's signature.
