Photographer Stepp is more than just a flash in the pan

by Alex Bedient
Clarion Staff Writer

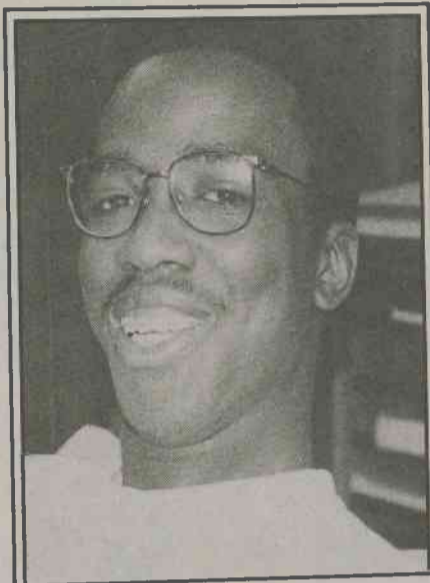

You are sitting in the S.U. laughing with your friends. Suddenly you see a flash fire. You look around and discover that you have been immortalized on film by Clarion photographer, Henry Stepp.

Henry Stepp II was born on May 21, 1974 in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, where he has lived for all of his life. He has twin sister, Holly, who he calls his best friend. "She's the coolest person I have ever meet. I just hope I never forget her birthday," Stepp commented.

In 1992 Stepp graduated from Robert B. Glenn High School in the nearby town of Kernersville, N.C. He started to hear of Brevard College though all the information that he received in the mail from the college. The one thing that really impressed him about the college was that the letter from admissions were addressed directly to Henry, not "Dear Prospective Student." He also liked the look of the campus and the small college atmosphere.

Stepp has become involved in various extracurricular activities around campus. He is a member of Wesley Fellowship, Unity, and S.G.A. Social Broad. However, he is probably better known for his job as Photo Editor for The Clarion. "I really like taking pictures. It's a good way the get people to smile, and it's a great way to flirt with girls." He started taking pictures for his high school yearbook as a way of avoiding writing stories.
