When asked how her team is doing this far into the season, Coach Skeffington replies, "Great team effort." Our team is peaking at the right time for playoffs. With seven new players on the team this year, I am very pleased with our game performance. I think we have the best passing and defense in the conference. Two Juniors Jenn Miller and Maegan Bodiford have passed consistently well on serve receive. Our new freshmen hitters have done an exceptional job transitioning to the quickness of the college game and they are all improving every match. I am looking forward to the Conference Tournament."

The volleyball team is facing many opponents. The various team contributions will help them as they go on to compete in their district, regionals, and state playoffs.

Brevard Baseball: Season Preview

by Jennie Howell, staff writer

A team here at Brevard College that needs no introduction, the Brevard College Baseball team is storm chasing their way to the top this year.

The Tornados have 20 returning players. Of the 20 returning, eight starting position players and seven are pitchers. The eight positional starters include senior at shortstop, Chad Nance; senior third baseman, Scott Lefler; senior second baseman, Travis Free; junior first baseman, Ray Gill; and junior outfield, or first base, Preston Roberts. The pitchers are senior Matt Joplin, senior Joey Cress, senior Nathan Wade, senior Tom Underhill, junior John Grimsley, and junior Chad Lanier.

These experienced players will help the rest of the team improve on their way to competing in conference, regionals, and state. The 2003 season ended in triumph: the team won two of three Appalachian
