On Feb. 15 the Brevard College Resident Advisors (RA) were given the opportunity to meet with President Drew Van Horn and the Dean of Students, Sue Yowell, to ask questions about the changes that will be occurring in the coming semesters.

The first issue brought up was the status of both Green and Taylor Halls. The Board of Trustees met last week to discuss this very matter. Green Hall will be refurbished in the same manner as East and West Beam. There will be no air conditioning for the hall as of yet.

Taylor Hall, however, will be a much more interesting reconstruction. The first floor of the hall will be offices, one large apartment, and living spaces for handicapped students. Taylor Hall will also be redone in a more business oriented design, complete with state of the art conference rooms and an elevator. The second and third floors will house men on one floor and women on the other.

Heating costs were also raised as a topic. Last November, heating costs were approximately $3,500. With the raise in oil prices, the cost of heating has escalated to over $20,000 to heat the entire college.

Students with the status of senior were concerned with the fact that alumni shaping has fallen by the way side. The President stated that the position for the alumni activities is currently empty and staffing for this area is relatively low.

Yowell and Van Horn both monthly use of the pool costs up to $1,200, while using the pool at the local country club costs less than $100. He also said that repairing the gymnasium pool would cost at least $350,000, according to the Sedexo Company.

Parking may or may not be expanded, according to Yowell and Van Horn. However, a new sticker color system will be implemented next year. Each sticker color will state where you may park. Also, there will be new ways of enforcing parking, such as tire locks. When the topic of break-in insurance and vandalism were brought to attention, it was simply stated that car insurance was to take care of all these incidents as the student handbook states.

There will be an increase in
