

Radiohead lets YOU decide

by David Ulloa
Staff Writer

Big league rockers Radiohead, released their seventh album, In Rainbows, on Oct. 10 via internet. The catch is that they're letting fans put a price of their own on the new album, making the possibilities of value from zero to maybe even in the trillions.

Who knows what fans could possibly decide, given this freedom to decide based on their own unique minds? Besides the Brian Jonestown Massacre, (who let fans download their music daily off their website) no other extremely popular rock-n-roll band has been this vulnerable to profit. I guess knowing that Radiohead is the crème de la crème right now of modern music everywhere in the world, it is sufficient to say that they wouldn't mind the lack of income, inset with their democratic way of release. They've achieved astonishing critical acclaim with every album, sold out dozens of shows in the past decade and have pioneered a style of music all of their own. This adoring endeavor to fans has made quite a stir around the media. Even late night show host, Conan O'Brian has made skit of Radiohead's sweet gift to the music world.

Although, there is only one flip side to this shiny coin; fans who want a collection of their B-side tracks, photos, a disc box that includes a compact disc and two 2x12 vinyl versions of In Rainbows, will have to pay forty dollars plus shipping. The pre-order option is available for the bonus package and shipments will start December 3.

Upon listening to the new record, fans will have to see if whatever value they established is worth the download or pre-order. Radiohead is soon to be going on a world-wide tour in support of In Rainbows. Fans are hopeful for free tickets, the word is not yet spread, but in classic Radiohead fashion, the suspense is all worth the while.

HOROSCOPE

Aries: You won't be able to pull that off again! That was a one time deal, buddy.
Lucky Color: Sticky Icky

Taurus: Karma's a bi-atch, so be nice!
Lucky Color: Wonderland Green

Gemini: Using your roommate's soap will get you in trouble one of these days.
Lucky Color: Peanut Butter Brown

Cancer: Look directly behind you. Wasn't that weird?
Lucky Color: Rehab Red

Leo: You deserve a cookie for what you just did.
Lucky Color: Meet me at Midnight Black

Virgo: Your roommate has had some weird dreams about you lately.
Lucky Color: Coconut White

Libra: You will be going on a long and adventurous trip soon.
Lucky Color: Brevard Blue

Scorpio: This fall break holds an unexpected surprise for you.
Lucky Color: Robust Red

Sagittarius: When you go camping don't forget the TP, those beans won't sit well.
Lucky Color: Goat Cheese White

Capricorn: Choose plastic.
Lucky Color: Getting Lucky Lavender

Aquarius: Smashing Pumpkins is much more fun than Carving One. That's how they got their name.
Lucky Color: British Flag

Pisces: Avoid the Chinese Food Buffet this week.
Lucky Color: Pescados Pink

Hey You!

When and What

- October 17th is SLAM night—prizes included
- November 14th is a Poetry reading—Musicians invited
- November 20th—Submission Deadline

Enjoy Writing?

If you have a knack for the written word and want to share it, then submit to the Chiaroscuro, Brevard's Literary Magazine.

Chiaroscuro

Submission Contest

The Best of in the categories of:

- Art
- Poetry
- Prose (Fiction & Non-Fiction)

Win $20!!!

SUBMIT

Submissions can be placed in MG 101 or can be emailed to litmag@brevard.edu