American Hero

Never mind that Barney Frank is Jewish and openly gay, or that Barack Obama is an African-American, one true American hero finally saw through their ruses and recognized them for what they truly are. Nazis! So what if both men are liberals. So what if their policies advocate providing health care for all Americans. So what if their ethnicities and backgrounds would have led both men to be targeted by Hitler in Nazi Germany. This true American Hero finally exposed them. Even after Frank circumvented her questions about his ties to Nazism by asking her, "On what planet do you spend most of your time?," and then comparing her intelligence and conversational skills to those of a kitchen table, she stayed strong and kept asking the hard questions. So, for alerting everyone to the wolves in sheep's clothing in the White House and on Capitol Hill, the Clarion recognizes the crazy lady from the Massachusetts town hall meeting as this week's American Hero.
