A unique experience is coming to BC in the form of the traveling film tour known as "Reel Rock." The 9th installment of the "Reel Rock" tour, it is reminiscent of the Banff Film festival with the exception that it is strictly rock-climbing based, and includes the showing of one full-length movie.

This event is one that does not usually come to the East Coast, usually playing in states like Colorado or overseas. The BC Climbing team has worked hard to see that the film tour will be making a stop in Brevard at the Ingram Auditorium on Nov. 8.

The movie that will be featured is called "Valley Uprising." The film took a whopping three years to put together and will discuss the rock climbing revolution that has taken place in Yosemite during the 1950s and the progression to the climbing culture today. This film tour comes with huge sponsors including The North Face, Evolve, and Clif Bar. There will be local sponsors as well.

The cost to get in will only be $5 and the doors will open at 7 p.m. Tickets will be available for purchase both by the rock climbing team and local businesses like The Hub and the Brevard Rock Gym.

BC Climbing captain James Smith is excited to have brought this special event here and hopes that the attendance will help continue to pay for the free rock climbing night that happens at the Rock Gym. He is also stoked that Brevard could be chosen to feature the tour when normally this event is in Asheville.
